

Congress Junking All Plans to Draft Boys, 18

WASHINGTON — (AP) — All congressional plans for drafting 18 year old youths were reported junked today.

A member of the Senate Armed Services Committee said 12 of its 13 members have agreed to revise its selective service bill to strip out the section calling for one year of compulsory military training for 161,000 of the 18 year olds.

The member asked not to be quoted by name. Chairman Gurney (R-SD) refused to comment, but it was learned that he has been checking the committee members on this point.

Under the new proposal 18 year olds would be allowed to volunteer for one year of service. After that they would have to serve four years as members of the national guard or other reserve units with regular drill periods and summer training camps or cruises.

Men from 19 through 25 years old would be subject to drafting for two years.

Army, Navy and Air Force leaders have estimated that they will get 250,000 volunteers for the one-year training program, far more than the 161,000 who were to have been drafted.

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) last week announced that the House would not accept any scheme for drafting 18-year-olds as provided in the Senate bill.

Senators Taft (R-Ohio), Byrd (D-Va), Wilson (R-Iowa) and others in that body also had promised a vigorous Senate fight against drafting of the 18 year olds.

The latest Senate move, as reported, brings its bill closer in line with a House measure which calls for drafting men 19 through 25 years with registration of those 18 through 30 years. The Senate bill limits registration to 18 through 25.

The House bill still lacks clearance from the Rules committee and that is not expected until early next month.

The revised Senate bill may be taken up during the next week. It is listed for consideration as soon as the Senate acts on a pending farm money bill and a measure to admit 100,000 European displaced persons.

Gurney said that if the displaced persons bill is not cleared by midweek he will ask Senate leaders to put it aside to act on the draft measure.

The one-year training plan for 18-year-olds was worked out by senators as a substitute for the original administration request to set up a separate universal military training program for the nation's youth.

It was to have had separate camps and instructors but senators said this would mean too heavy a burden of cost and manpower at a time when the armed services are to be expanded by the stopgap draft.

The new compromise still left unsettled a touchy question about racial segregation in the armed services.

Senator Russell (D-Ga) and other southerners say they will insist that any drafted or enlisted man shall have the right to ask service in units of his own race.

Senator Ball (R-Minn) and other Republicans say they have the votes to defeat the Russell proposal. But they agree it may take a lot of time.

Workers In County Hit Peak

Picture Bright, Handley Says

Employment in Richland county has reached a record high and there's no sign of a decline.

Even high school pupils who wanted jobs for the summer have had little trouble finding work.

That's the bright picture painted yesterday by C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield office of the Ohio State Employment Service.

Handley said total employment now tops the 26,879 reported at this time last year.

He said his office has plenty of job openings. There are more jobs available for high school students who have not applied, he said.

He said the information his office has leads him to believe there will not be any let-down in employment.

WAGES LITTLE CHANGED

Handley said average weekly salaries for the first quarter of this year were comparable to the $52.01 paid during a corresponding period in 1947. He pointed out that raises partly had compensated for the loss of overtime.

Hourly wages are higher. Among job openings listed by Handley included die makers, foundry workers, punch press operators, assemblers, sales clerks and sales persons, and warehousemen, mechanics, construction workers, millwrights, machinists, stenographers and porters.

Professional worker openings in the Ohio area include teachers, office managers, personnel workers, some of which are in private business and some in government work.

Although the largest industrial lay-off of workers since V-J Day occurred in late April, those workers have since been absorbed by other industries, Handley said.

The number seeking jobs as of May 1 numbered 482, the lowest number of job seekers this year. The biggest drop in employment seekers was among men, the figure dropping from 359 to 296.

Many of the applicant are seeking part-time work to supplement their incomes, or want different jobs, Handley said.

The number of persons claiming unemployment benefits weekly declined one-fifth from March to 173 during April, Handley said.

Tass Report Flays U. S.

MOSCOW — (AP) — The official Russian news agency last night blamed the United States for the present state of Russo-American relations and said "clearly the attitude of the United States government is not conducive to progress in international affairs."

The news agency, Tass, released a 13-page statement which it said reflected "the attitude of leading circles in the Soviet government."

Tass listed the same 11 spheres of disagreement which had been noted by Prime Minister Josef Stalin in his reply to an open letter by Henry A. Wallace. The United States state department on May 19 detailed its own position on these points, charging that Russia blocked settlements in each case.

After citing the Russian position on the points, Tass said: "From all that has been said above it is clear who bears the responsibility for the present state of Russo-American relations."

The statement added that the "facts refute the assertion of the (U.S.) state department" that Russia's non-compliant attitude prevents the solution of the problems.

Air Guard Seeking 353 Men

With the arrival of formal notice from the federal government that the $1,000,000 military installation at Mansfield Airport had been approved, Mansfield today was moving swiftly to organize and launch a campaign to recruit an air national guard personnel of 353 officers and enlisted men.

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn yesterday received a message from Brig. Gen. Kenneth Cooper, assistant to the adjutant general in Washington, stating that the National Guard Bureau Department of the Army had approved organization of the 164th National Guard Fighter Squadron which comprises the military installation.

The Fighter Squadron which, it is believed, will be activated at ceremonies in mid-June, will mean this to Mansfield:

1. An annual payroll of estimated at $400,000.
2. A National Guard training center made up of the 353 officers and enlisted men from a population area of 200,000. Along with Richland county, recruits will be eligible from Ashland, Morrow, Crawford, Huron and Knox counties.

$500,000 INVESTMENT

3. It will mean an estimated $500,000 investment at the airport by the federal government. This money would be spent for the construction of hangars, an operations office, motor repair and maintenance building and possibly an officers' club.

Another $500,000 has been estimated as the value of the planes to be stationed there. These include 25 P-51 Mustang fighters, four A-26 attack bombers, two transports and four training planes.

The government approval led to the appointment of an advisory committee to assist in the organization and recruiting activities. Men 17 to 45 who are interested in aviation are eligible, with the age limits of 17 to 35 set for those without previous military service.

Opening of the recruiting period will be decided upon soon. Heading the committee as chairman is A. P. Tappan. Serving with him are A. L. Allen, J. H. Ashbaugh, G. L. Bierly, G. L. Draffin, P. M. Eliot, W. L. Faulkner, R. B. Gardner, M. H. Pryor, H. B. Soulen, Dr. P. A. Stodt and Mayor Roy W. Vaughn. Other organization committees are to be named Monday.

Big Crowds Hear U. S. Navy Band

Large crowds roundly applauded the 55-member United States Navy band-augmented by eight Senior high students-at concerts given yesterday afternoon and evening at Senior high school auditorium.

Approximately 600 people attended the afternoon concert and well over 1000 enjoyed the evening program.

Responding to the hearty welcome given them, the bandmen under the capable baton of Lt. Com. Charles E. Bendler, played several encores.

Both audiences might have found it difficult to pick a favorite number from the highly diversified programs but if applause could be taken as a measure, the "Casey Jones Fantasy" was close to the top.

The band, which arrived in Mansfield early yesterday afternoon, was locally sponsored by the Zeta Rho chapter of Delta Theta Tau sorority. Proceeds from tickets sold for the two concerts will be spent toward furnishing the new Richland county tuberculosis sanatorium.

Good Wheat Crop Seen

But Cold Retards Growth of Corn

The cool, wet weather has been good for Richland county wheat and hay, but rough on the corn.

Guy L. Taylor, county Triple-A chairman, said yesterday.

I've never seen hay and wheat higher or looking better at this time of the year," Taylor said yesterday.

Although "light" frost hit the area Friday and Saturday, Taylor said he doubted that it damaged any crops. He said corn, a warm weather crop, had been retarded but not heavily damaged.

In the southern part of the county about two-thirds of the corn crop has been planted. However, very little has been planted in the northern half, Taylor said. He said the northern area has had more rain.

He said farmers have sufficient time to get their corn planted this week, which is about the latest it should be planted.

Taylor said about one half of the potato crop has been planted. The crop should be in by the middle of June.

Oats, one of the main crops of Richland county farmers, look good, Taylor said.

Mansfield Area Seniors Invited

Army to Hold Draft, UMT Symposium

A unique symposium on proposed draft and universal military training legislation will be conducted here Thursday night by the Army and Army Air Force.

More than 550 Mansfield area high school seniors and their parents have been invited to participate in the discussion. Capt. Robert L. Pine, commanding officer of the Mansfield Army and AAF Recruiting station, announced yesterday.

Army and reserve officers will conduct the program, set for 7:30 p. m. Thursday at the Mansfield National Guard armory. Leader of the symposium will be Stuart M. Weaver, general manager of the Ideal Electric company and a colonel in the organized reserve.

Alvin Preyer, advertising and personnel manager at Ideal, will discuss proposed draft legislation. Coleman Todd of Coleman Todd and Associates will give an

Children Involved In Tragedy Young Boy Forces Sister to Kill Him

YOUNGWOOD, Pa. — (AP) — A 12-year old boy "who was sulking because his grandmother didn't buy him a bilfold," compelled his 9-year old sister to kill him with a rifle Saturday, County Detective Edward Gordon reported.

Another sister watched the tragedy in a bedroom at the home of the children's grandparents, Gordon said.

The victim was Richard Russell Henry. He and his sisters, Joanne, 9, and Nancy, 10, had returned from a shopping trip only a short time before the shooting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Livingston.

Gordon gave this version: Mrs. Livingston had taken her three grandchildren to nearby Greensburg, Pa., to buy them clothes.

After outfitting the trio she purchased a doll for the girls.

6 Hurt When 2 Cars Collide

Dr. and Mrs. William Wolford and son Thomas, 824 Park Avenue West, and Mr. and Mrs. David Williams, Plymouth, and their son Ronald, 6, were injured early yesterday evening in a two-car accident a mile north of Shelby on state route 61, state highway patrolmen said last night.

The collision took place when Williams started to make a left turn into Dompney road from route 61. All six persons were taken to Shelby City hospital for treatment.

school graduates and their parents, Capt. Pine explained that the armed services recognize the fact that every 1948 graduate and his parents should be interested "in the facts and scope of just what the Army and Air Force can offer in the way of training, guidance and careers for young men."

"Most important of all," Capt. Pine said, "Young men and their parents will be able to get complete, exact and up-to-date information on all phases of how the future will be affected by a renewal of the draft act or enactment of UMT. We feel the meeting presents an opportunity no young man in this area can afford to miss."

Dewey Defeats Stassen

Wins Oregon's 12 Delegates

PORTLAND, ORE. — (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey stopped Harold Stassen in Oregon yesterday.

It was a major setback for the Minnesota contender for the Republican presidential nomination.

It gave the New York governor 12 GOP delegates, pledged to support him at the convention.

Stassen conceded his defeat in Minneapolis as tabulations of 82 per cent of Friday's Oregon primary balloting increased Dewey's margin to 6,621 votes.

Late Saturday the unofficial count from 1,530 of Oregon's 1,861 precincts gave Dewey 92,316; Stassen, 85,695.

A large part of the unreported count was from Multnomah county (Portland) which consistently was giving Dewey a substantial majority. It may be Monday, however, before the official count is complete.

Dewey flew from Seattle to Sacramento yesterday, and was congratulated on his Oregon triumph by Gov. Earl Warren of California. Warren is a dark horse contender for the Republican nomination and California's favorite son to whom the state's big block of 63 delegates is pledged.

DEWEY PLEASED

Dewey described the efforts of his supporters in Oregon as "heart warming."

Dewey's victory was in large part due to his surprising up-state support, which had been largely conceded to Stassen.

The New Yorker was leading Stassen by a slight margin in up-state areas, as well as in the metropolitan Portland district.

Going down to a surprise defeat in the Republican gubernatorial primary was Gov. John Hall, who had been regarded as odds-on choice for the nomination for a full term. As speaker of the house, he succeeded to the governorship last October when Gov. Earl Snell, the Senate president and secretary of state all were killed in a plane crash.

Hall conceded the victory of State Senator Douglas McKay, 54-year-old Salem automobile dealer.

"In a little while he went upstairs to his grandfather's room where he got a .22 caliber, repeating rifle. He found one shell in a dresser drawer."

"Then he went to his sister's room, loaded the gun, pointed it at his stomach and told Joanne: 'Pull the trigger or I'll kill you.'"

"Joanne said she was 'afraid not to do what he told me' and pulled the trigger. Richard slumped to the floor and cried: 'Call grandmother right away.'"

Mrs. Livingston rushed upstairs and found Richard unconscious. She called an ambulance but Richard died enroute to the hospital.

Mules End Race Ahead Of Train

GREENVILLE, Miss. — (AP) — Delta Mississippi's "mule express" finished a 35-mile race ahead of the Illinois Central's "Old Reluctant" Saturday but there were rumors the old, old "fix" was in.

Nature Boy, the last of four mules ridden in relays from Cleveland, Miss., to Greenville, a 35-mile trip, walked into Greenville a scant three minutes ahead of "Old Reluctant," as Delians had dubbed IC train No. 23.

The race was staged by Delta leaders as a publicity stunt to point up their complaints of poor train service. Nobody claimed very vehemently that the mules covered the entire distance.

Cease Fire! U. N. Tells Arabs, Jews

The question of the U. N. using force really was decided, however, when the security council did not approve the United States demand. That preliminary vote was 5 to 0 with six nations abstaining.

Before the final vote, Warren R. Austin, U. S. delegate, served notice the U. S. will call for further action if this 36-hour cease fire order is not observed.

The council adjourned to meet Monday at 1:30 p. m. (EST) on Czechoslovakia and Palestine.

On the critical paragraph dealing with force, the United States, Russia, the Soviet Union, France and Colombia voted for it; Britain, Syria, China, Canada, Belgium and Argentina abstained.

With that thorny problem out of the way, the delegates lost little time in approving a cease fire order; a demand for the truce commission to expedite a truce for Jerusalem, and a call on Arabs and Jews to work with the U. N. mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte, of Sweden.

The top U. S. representative in Palestine, Wasson, 52, was wounded "gravely" by a sniper as he braved gunfire in the streets in trying to arrange a cease fire arrangement between Arabs and Jews, the state department reported.

After first aid treatment, he was taken in an armored ambulance to the Hadassah English Mission hospital. There doctors gave him better than an even chance to recover. The bullet passed through his right arm and chest.

Herbert M. Walker, member of a naval communications unit which maintains a radio link between Jerusalem and Washington, was hit by machine gun bullets near the consulate general. Dispatches indicated this was a separate incident.

Dramatic Try Ends In Failure

2 Clevelanders Saved By Guard

A 24-year-old Cleveland woman met death yesterday in the Charles Mill reservoir seven miles east of Mansfield when a dramatic attempt to rescue her from an overturned rowboat turned to tragedy as the rescue craft capsized.

The drowned woman was identified by Coroner D. C. Lavender as Mrs. Mary Katherine Allen of 1306 West 116th street, Cleveland. Sheriff's Deputy Charles B. Wheeler said that a party of eight from the Cleveland area rented three boats at the lake for a picnic. Three of them, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Evelyn Knox, 12507 Clifton boulevard, Lakewood, and John Miske, Cleveland, took one of the boats out into the lake from an island.

Wheeler said when the boat capsized their shouts and those of persons on the bank attracted Miles D. McCarty, lake patrolman for the Muskingum conservancy district.

McCarty sped to the scene in his motorboat, rescuing the two women and the man. McCarty said Miske did a superb job of holding the two women to the capsized boat.

"I pulled them into my boat," McCarty said. "After I got all three settled, I turned around to start the motor. Then the boat capsized and we all went into the water."

SHOUTS BRING AID

"I never saw the woman again. I was able to get the other woman to hold me around the neck. I don't know yet how we made it back to the boat."

McCarty related that he was at the old mill boat docks when a woman shouted to him a boat had capsized. That was between 12:30 and 1 p. m., McCarty said.

Kenneth Wassem, operator of Wassem's Boat service at the lake, said the party rented the boats about 10:30 a. m. McCarty and Wassem's son James, dragged the lake for more than seven hours after the tragedy, but without success. They said they would continue dragging the lake today.

Wassem said the anchor of the rented rowboat had settled to the bottom, holding the partly submerged boat at the spot where the rescue craft overturned.

Wassem and McCarty said the work was made more difficult by the number of tree stumps in the lake bottom. He said a fence ran across the lake bottom at that point, increasing the difficulty.

Others in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fagan, Gabriel Allen, husband of the drowned woman, Mrs. John Miske, all of Cleveland, and John Knox, Lakewood.

The Mansfield fire department sent out its emergency vehicle containing a pump and grapple hook. A fireman helped in the dragging operation.

Citizens' Forum Residents Demand Railroad Crossing

For the past several years Mansfielders in the north end of town have been agitating for a railroad crossing into North Lake park. Four weeks ago petitions asking city council to take action on the construction of a passenger and vehicular tunnel were circulated. Various groups have voiced opposition to the underpass proposal so this week the forum questioner went into the north end and asked residents, "What do you think of the proposal to construct tunnel under the Erie and B. & O. railroad tracks north of North Lake park?"

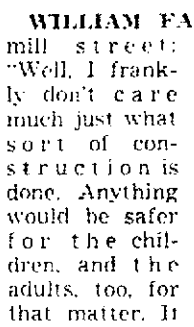

MRS. ANNA HAGER, 742 McPherson street: "I think an overpass would be better because it would do away with the sewage problem when it rains hard. Something should be done because as it is it's hard, unpleasant and dangerous for the school children who must cross the tracks to get to Senior high school. It's too far out of the way to go out to Bowman street and Trimble street and cross there."

H. M. TAYLOR, 646 Springmill street: "A crossing of some sort would be a good project. There should be some safe, practical means of crossing both for children and automobiles. The Mulberry street crossing is a bottleneck and if anything ever happened to tie up that crossing, the north end would be in a bad fix."

Pherson street: "Something, underpass or overpass doesn't make much difference, but something should be done. It would make the north end more accessible and it would be easier for us out here to get back and forth to town. And we might get bus service then, too."

ANNI FIDLER, 649 Springmill street: "I'm inclined to think that an underpass here would have the same trouble the one at the other end of town (Park Avenue East) has—that is, filling up in rainy weather. And an underpass would be hard to light and perhaps dangerous for children at night."

Miss Fidler

MRS. W. R. BOWSER, 668 Springmill street: "Well, an overpass might be better than an underpass. It would be much safer for small children and especially at night. It would be wonderful because every time I see school children crossing those tracks it just makes me shiver."

Police Kill Dogs To Reach Body

TOLEDO — (AP) — George F. Comersall died on a sidewalk yesterday while two dogs fought each other over his body until police killed them, Coroner Paul G. Hohly, said.

had taken his huge boxer dog out for a walk. The dog and a neighbor's cocker spaniel began to fight and Comersall slumped to the sidewalk with a heart attack. Police shot the two dogs so members of the rescue squad could reach the man.

Bearden Hurls Shutout Against Powerful Bosox

Lancaster Boy Steals State Track Show

Rookie Notches Third

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Gene Bearden, 27-year-old Purple Heart war veteran, tossed a six-hit shutout at the Boston Red Sox yesterday as the league-leading Cleveland Indians recorded a 7-to-0 victory before a ladies' day crowd of 28,997.

The husky southpaw, who was acquired from the New York Yankees late in 1946, notched his third straight win of the season against no defeats.

The game was a scoreless mound duel between Bearden and Boston's Jack Kramer until the fourth inning when big Eddie Robinson put the Indians ahead by clouting a home run with Larry Doby on base.

The Indians counted another run in the sixth when Doby beat out a roller to short and went to second on Vern Stephens' wild throw. Manager Lou Boudreau singled him home.

Kramer retired for a pinch-hitter after six innings. His replacement, Harry Dorish, was treated rudely by the Tribesmen, who belted him for a single tally in the seventh and three in the eighth.

The win gave the Indians two out of three in the series with the Red Sox.

The knuckleball artist retired the side order in five of the nine innings but the Sox gave him some trouble when they loaded the bases in the first and third frames.

With two out in the first, Ted Williams and Vern Stephens singled and Bobby Doerr reached first on a fielder's choice. Doerr thumbed to Ken Keltner, whose throw to second was too late to force Stephens. However, Bearden forced Sam Mele to ground out to end the inning.

The Sox again loaded the sacks with two out in the third. Williams and Stephens walked and Doerr singled off Keltner's glove but Mele's grounder forced Doerr at second for the final out.

The Indians got their seventh inning run when Jim Hegan singled, went to second on a sacrifice and came across on a single by Doby.

The Tribe's three-run rally in the eighth began with Robinson safely dragging a bunt past Dorish. Keltner popped a single into center and Robinson stopped at third. Dale Mitchell scored both runners with a double and Mitchell came in on Hegan's single.

INCREASE LEAD

The win enabled the Indians to increase their first-place lead to a game and a half over the Philadelphia Athletics, who were beaten by Detroit.

A crowd of approximately 80,000 is expected to watch today's double header with the New York Yankees at the Lakefront stadium. Bob Feller and Don Black will hurl for the Indians, with the Yankees starting former Indian Alvin Karpis and Ed Lopat.

Stymie Finally Wins
NEW YORK — (AP) — Stymie, world champion money winner, won his first race of 1948 at Belmont park yesterday as he took the $25,000 added Metropolitan handicaps for the second straight year. Colossal was second and Rippey third.

Dillard Win Streak Reaches 70

BREA — (AP) — Harrison Dillard, the nation's hurdles king, extended his all-time winning streak to 70 straight victories today with a triple triumph, but his Baldwin-Wallace mates took an 80-1-35-1 setback from Michigan normal in a dual track meet.

Dillard copped easy victories in the 100-yard dash and the low and high hurdles, but conceded indi-

Some Bits of This And That Culled From Sport Scene

SPORT POURIE, FROM HITHER AND YON: V. H. Oberlander, the veteran coach of the Senior high golf team, bemoans the fact that more Mansfield school students aren't playing competitive golf. . . . The Senior high squad usually has less than 10 men. . . . So next spring, "Obie" hopes to organize teams in Mansfield's two junior highs. . . . These teams could play each other and possibly other area junior teams. . . . Another good feeder system in the making, perhaps. . . . Of course, Oberlander hopes all the school age lads will take to the links this summer for that much needed practice. . . . A Senior high intra-mural golf tournament (varsity players excluded) would be helpful. . . . John Simpson, which has been noted for its fine track and field teams, will come up with a baseball club next spring says Coach Bob Kennedy. . . . Chick Shutt and Pete Russell had the first Mohican Sailing club boat "in" the water at Charles Mill lake. . . . They own an Interlake. . . . Blue seems to be a dominant color for Mohican boats this year. . . . The Mohican lars plan to put in their dock today. . . . The Ohio Open golf tournament will be staged at the Sylvania Country club in Toledo July 26, 27 and 28. . . . Fireworks at night ball games in Cincinnati have been halted because of the fire damage to property in the vicinity of the ball yard.

NINE OHIOANS are on the Michigan football roster. . . . Five of the group are lettermen. . . . Of spring grid drills, Michigan Coach Bonnie Oosterbaan says, "Spring practice at Michigan is not designed to develop a team for a final spring game. Its purpose is to evaluate material, to give individual instruction to new players, or to older players who may need special work." . . . Rocky Graziano, the middleweight Stakes, coming up June 12, will be the 80th running. . . . The first Belmont was in 1867.

ROOKIE AL ROSEN should be credited with an assist in making Ken Keltner of the Indians the most feared home run swatter in the majors. . . . Rosen is not with the Tribe anymore; he was optioned to Kansas City just before the season opened. . . . When the 23-year-old rookie pulled out he left behind two of his bats. . . . One afternoon, in an effort to shake off a slump, Keltner picked up one of the bats and tried it in batting drill. . . . It felt good, it sounded good meeting the ball, and more than that, it drove two out of the park in six swings. . . . Since then the records speak for themselves. . . . Only seven players started the 1948 American league season with lifetime batting averages of .300 or better. . . . Two of the group are Chicago White Sox. . . . Taft Wright's seven-year mark is .320, while Luke Appling hit .312 in 17 seasons. . . . The other marks are: Ted Williams .331, Joe DiMaggio .331, John Pesky .330, Barney McCoskey .319 and Dick Wakefield .303. . . . Wakefield has been riding the bench a lot this year because of poor plate work. . . . Bobby Feller will wait until August to make up his mind about a third barnstorming trip.

Senior High Baseballers Battle In Regional Meet

By CHARLEY STINE

Senior high's Tiger baseball team will take its brilliant pitching records and anemic batting averages into the Bowling Green regional tournament tomorrow, with hopes of upsetting Columbus Central, one of the toughest teams in the state.

Coach Jimmy Lymper's diamond performers are scheduled to meet Central at 12:30 p. m. on the Bowling Green university diamond. Lima Central, which won its district finals yesterday, will meet a Toledo team at 10:30. Finals will be played immediately after the Mansfield-Columbus game.

Although the Tigers will be underdogs, the Columbus team must do something no one has done this year—score on Shelly Swank—if they want to win.

CATCHER Joe Miller is the only regular batting over .300. Only three others, Gregorio, Swank and Sparkie Watts are above the .200 level.

Swank has pitched 34 innings and has refused to allow a single man to cross the platter. Lymper revealed yesterday that he would use Swank in the opening game so that he would get his hurling done before assuming his regular position at second base.

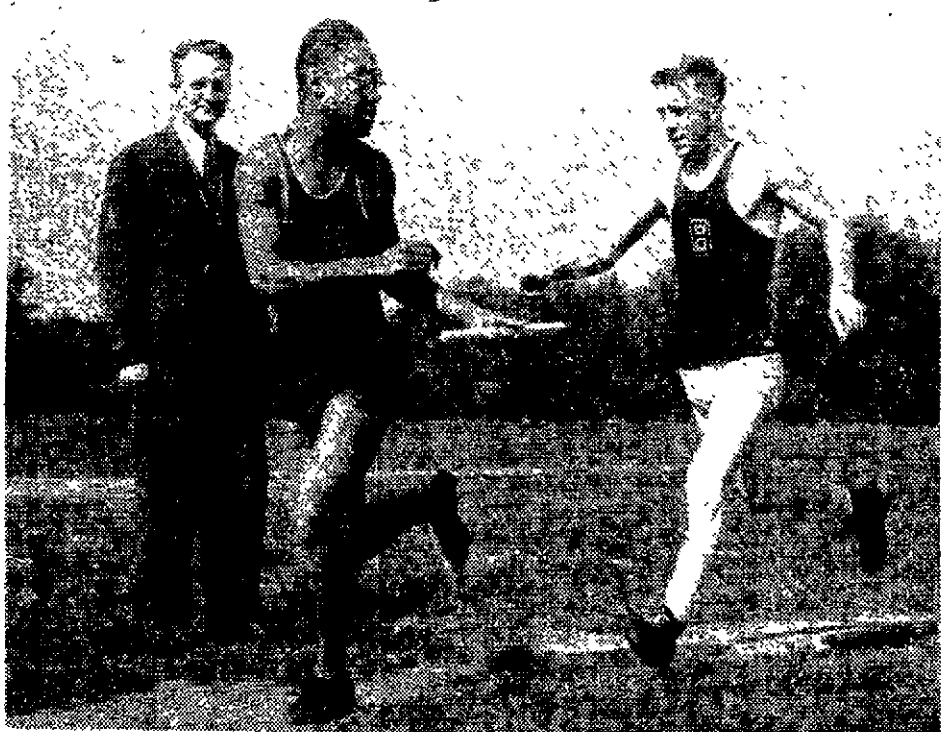

If Mansfield wins the opener, it will be Lou (Double No-Hit) Gregorio attempting to continue his magic spell in the nightcap. Gregorio has a string of 14 hitless innings, having turned in no-hit jobs in his last two outings.

The Tigers are scheduled to meet Baberton at home Tuesday and play at Wooster Thursday, but both games will be cancelled if the locals are still in the run-

Higbe Hands Dodgers 7th Straight Loss

BROOKLYN — (AP) — With Kirby Higbe holding his former Brooklyn mates to four hits and fanning eight, the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the Dodgers 3-1 today to extend the Brooks' losing streak to seven straight. Dixie Walker and Stan Rokjek, who along with Higbe were members of the Dodgers last year, drove in the winning runs.

Dickson Stars As Cardinals Upset Braves

BOSTON — (AP) — Although slammed for three home runs, Murrey Dickson today pitched and helped bat the National league leading St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-4 victory over the Boston Braves before 11,443 fans.

The Cards got off to a two-run lead in the first inning, but Tommy Holmes clouted his fourth homer of the season in the third inning to bring the Braves, who had scored once in the second, into a 2-2 tie.

That deadlock lasted until the seventh when Dickson doubled to left field and scored on Red Schoendienst's bungle.

Erv Dusak hit to the same spot and after Stan Musial popped out, Enos Slaughter doubled. Don Lang singled off reliever Bob Hogue to drive in two more runs. Jeff Heath powdered his fifth homer of the year in the ninth and Salkeld hit his first in the same inning for the Braves' final tallies.

NEW YORK — (AP) — With Sid Gordon and Whitey Lockman supplying the home run punch, Rightlander Ray Poat had an easy time shutting out the Chicago Cubs 11-0 yesterday to register his fourth victory of the season. For the New York Giants, Gordon, who replaced Jack Lohrke at third base, slammed his four-bagger with the bases loaded.

Grays Host to Akron; Lose to Chicago Team

The Mansfield Grays are looking forward to their scheduled game with Akron Borden Autos here this afternoon with hopes of doing better than they did in dropping an 8-3 decision to the Chicago Colored Barons yesterday.

The Barons pushed over eight runs in the first two innings before the Grays settled down. The veteran Merle Leedy pitched creditable ball for seven innings, but the early nervousness of his mates cost him the game, as nearly all the visitors' runs were unearned. Mike Bycelene relieved him in the eighth inning and hung goose-eggs on the scoreboard the final two frames.

After getting off to a comfortable lead, the Chicago team kept the fans well entertained with comedy, while showing some fancy ball-handling.

Manager Lefty Deeds has named Don Fought to make his third start when the Grays take the field at 2:30 today against Borden.

Tygers Finish Sixth

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—Dayton Dunbar in Class A and Independence in Class B grabbed the team titles, but the story of today's 41st Ohio high school track-field championships belongs to a clean-cut kid from Lancaster.

He is Gene Cole, a 17-year-old senior, and a newcomer to the scorching cinders. Until this year he never wore a spiked shoe, but today he romped to a 48-second quarter mile for a new national record, and won the century and 220-dashes in impressive style.

FIRST SINCE OWENS
In becoming the first Class A triple winner since the renowned Jesse Owens did it in 1933, Cole stole the show before some 15,000 fans.

Bob Cooper, last year's quarter-mile winner, was a good 12 yards back of Cole at the finish. And J. V. Clifford, Canton McKinley's star who won the 100 and 220-yard events in 1947, was beaten badly by Cole at both dashes.

Lancaster, boasting its first track team in a dozen years, had 18 points at the finish, all scored by Cole who was the lone qualifier from the school. Dunbar, first Negro school ever to win the Class A crown, led the way with 22 1/2 points, just a half-point ahead of Canton McKinley.

Cole graduates in June, and college coaches are hot on his trail. He is six feet one, weighs 165, and is a pretty fair football end, scoring nine touchdowns on end-around plays last fall.

The scholastic quarter mile record of 38.2 seconds which Cole cracked was set in 1915 by Sloan of San Francisco Polytechnic, and tied in 1928 by Herb Moxley of Columbus Central.

Three other records went into the state meet books yesterday, two in Class A and one in Class B, as perfect weather gave the kids a chance to put their best foot forward.

Ronnie Parker of Mount Healthy came up with the new Class B mark, a scintillating 4:29.6 effort in the mile. He won it by some 60 yards to nip 24 seconds off the 4:32 record set four years ago by Hilty of Pandora.

NEW RECORD
The new Class A records came from the muscle men in the field events. Bob Tonnef, all-Ohio football tackle from Barborton, put his 237 pounds behind the shot for a 53-foot 9 1/4-inch heave which added 5 1/4 inches to Fremont Bob Shaw's 1940 record.

Eugene Strathman of South Euclid Brush almost tossed the discus out of sight with a 152-foot 9-inch effort, adding better than three feet to the 149-foot 7 1/4-inch mark set in 1929 by Akron North's Stanley Baughman.

Walter Klevay led the Independence team to the Class B laurels almost single handed. The flashy speedster won the 100 and 220-yard dashes easily for a dozen points, and then came from behind to anchor his team to victory in the half-mile relay.

NEED ALL
Independence needed all the first places, too, for a second in any of the three events would have tossed the title to Oak Harbor, which wound up second with 16 1/2 points.

Dayton Dunbar, coached by Dane Abritton who won fame as an Ohio State university high jumper, scored 21 of its points with victories in the mile run, mile relay and half-mile relay, plus a third in the half-mile relay. The winning 1 1/2 points came on a third place tie in the high jump, the only field event in which the Gem City team scored.

Little Tommy Tucker, as usual, was Mansfield's leading scorer as he placed third in the century, and second in broad jump. Tucker had the broad jump won until the final leap.

Marty Brucker, only other senior high point-gainer, was fourth in the 120 high hurdles and fifth in the 220 low hurdles.

Methodists Pay Honor To Bishop

Smith to Retire As Ohio Leader
By KEN DAVIS
COLUMBUS — (AP) — Other little boys wanted to be baseball players, firemen, cowboys or heavyweight champions of the world.

H. Lester Smith just wanted to be a minister.

Today — many decades later — 500,000 Ohio Methodists are planning special honors for Bishop H. Lester Smith on the eve of his retirement as senior bishop of the Methodist church.

They will be honoring an unusual man in 72-year-old Bishop Smith. For the white-haired leader of the two largest Methodist conferences in the world once was an oil well driller. The tale of his transition from that rough-and-bravny occupation is a saga of grit.

A special service of appreciation for Bishop Smith will be held in Columbus May 28 as a part of the annual meeting of the Ohio conference of the Methodist church. Bishop Smith will retire in June.

The smiling man to whom Ohio Methodists have turned for spiritual guidance and counsel since 1932 was born in 1876, the son of staunch Methodist parents in the Pennsylvania Dutch country near Indiana, Pa. His father owned a flourishing oil business.

From the age of 10, young Smith made spending money in the oil business. At 18 he drilled his first well.

MADE DECISION EARLY
The future bishop knew early what he wanted to do in life: He wanted to preach. But preaching meant study and study cost money that he didn't have.

Drilling oil wells offered a solution. So, he drilled wells on week days and filled a supply pastorate at Pitsburg, Pa., on Sunday. Slowly the savings piled up. Finally, the needed cash had been gathered. The time was at hand when H. Lester Smith would enter college.

And, a business failure came along and wiped out all his savings. By the time college again appeared a certainty, Bishop Smith was 24, somewhat older than the ordinary college freshman. He entered anyway.

"The business experience I gained while waiting has been invaluable to me in understanding the problems of businessmen in my congregation," the Bishop mused the other day. "And, it has helped me to manage church affairs."

Perhaps it helped him, too, to gain a Phi Beta Kappa key at Allegheny college. Meadville, Pa., and an enviable scholastic reputation. After his third year, young Smith went to Drew Theological seminary in New Jersey and, simultaneously, took post-graduate work at Columbia university. Just to keep abreast of his religious work, he also preached at Leona, N. J.

Throughout these years, the Bishop's wife, the former Ida L. Martin, took the same courses. The couple met in oil-well days at a church where Mrs. Smith was conducting a young people's meeting. "We've had a wonderful life together," Mrs. Smith recently commented.

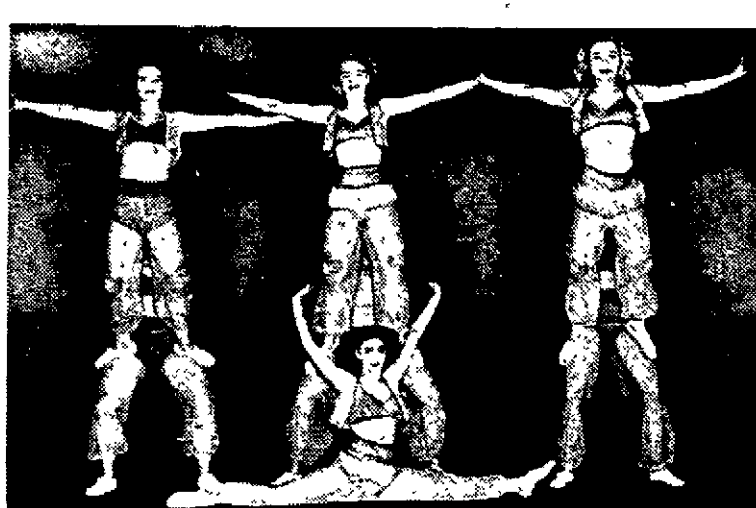

That life has included some queer experiences, as well as hard work and devotion to duty. In 1906 the newly graduated Rev. Mr. Smith and his energetic, kindly wife began their full-time ministry. They first turned to Bellevue, Pa., successfully concluding in their three-year pastorate a church building program. Then they went to Buffalo and three years later to Detroit as active pastor of the Detroit Central church.

During his eight years in Detroit, Bishop Smith obtained 3,000 new church members and caused to be built a five-story recreation building next to the church.

By 1920, the 44-year-old pastor was noted within the church as an able administrator. He was elected bishop at the quadrennial conference in Des Moines. His first service in the episcopacy was in India.

During a four-year stay as bishop at Bangalore, India, the Smiths often were guests of the Maharajah of Mysore, second richest of the Indian princes.

Those four years were exotic years for a Methodist bishop —

CIRCUS STARS—The Wallabys, internationally known troupe of girl acrobats, will be a feature act of the Cole Bros. circus which will appear at the Fairground in Mansfield next Thursday afternoon and night. The girls, who perform amazing balancing and tumbling stunts, came to this country from Sidney, Australia. They once gave a command performance before the king and queen of England.

Here's Sure Sign of Spring: Circus Comes Here Thursday

A score of attractions are promised circus fans when the Cole Brothers circus comes to Mansfield, Thursday, a advance agents for the circus said yesterday.

One of the leading features in the 1948 production is Hubert Castle, tight wire star. Castle climaxes his act with a somersault from the high wire completely through a hoop.

Other attractions include the Wallabys, all-girl troupe of acrobats from Australia; the great Davissos; the Aussies; and another group of acrobats; Ruth Nelson, daring bareback rider; the Flying Thrillers, aerialists; the animal menagerie, and many others.

The circus will be held at the Fairgrounds with performances at 2:15 and 8 p. m. Main gates will open at 1:15 and 7 p. m. Tickets are on sale at the City News.

At noon show day, an old-fashioned steam calliope concert will be held on downtown streets.

Tommy Cornstock, calliope player, will be featured.

A Typical Story of the Civil War
Spyros Isn't Working Now In Greece

By ROBERT HEWETT
STYLIS, Greece — (AP) — Spyros was sitting sleepily in the sun, slouched over the little sidewalk table and sipping dark Turkish coffee.

Spyros doesn't work any more. Every sunny day for the last year he has been sitting at the little coffee table. He usually is sleepy because nearly every night he sits with his rifle at the edge of town—on guard against communist-led guerrillas who lurk in the neighboring mountains.

Except that he lived for 15 years in the United States, Spyros might be called a typical Greek caught in the civil war.

At any rate he is a good example of the slow, deadly paralysis that the communist-inspired mountain warfare has spread over Greece.

Spyros Harilabits went to the United States in 1909, at the age of 14. Three or four years later he opened a cafe in Milwaukee and then served in the U. S. Army during World War I. Homesick for Greece, he returned to this dusty little harbor town when his father died in 1924.

In time Spyros became a fairly prosperous man. At 53, he owns 1,000 olive trees on land five miles from Stylis. This part of south central Greece grows some of the finest olives in the world.

THEY'RE MEN AFRAID
But now Spyros and his fellow villagers are men afraid. For years filled with big game hunting, visits to the Maharajah's palace, of 22 attacks of malaria and dengue fever for the bishop.

He returned to the United States in 1924. The next eight years he spent in Helena, Mont., and Chattanooga, Tenn. In 1932, he became Bishop of Ohio.

Air Mail Marks 30th Anniversary

By JAMES J. STREIBIG, AP Aviation Reporter
WASHINGTON—Scheduled air mail service this month completes 30 years of life and a billion miles of flying.

Wreckage scars the paths of pioneers who took the mail through instrument weather ("blind" flying) before planes had instruments. Yet, in those 30 years postal delivery by air has developed more than by any other means.

It is impossible to calculate in statistics the post office department's contribution to the nation's air strength through promotion of air mail.

The record shows a tremendous influence on building the airways and airports, all-weather flying, development of large and faster aircraft and better navigation and communications facilities, improving flying technique, developing air transport—all providing a capacity vital to a war effort.

Much of that has been paid for over stamp counters.

But 30 years has not solved all of the problems. Chief headaches yet to be cured are imperfect schedule dependability and slow connections between downtown postoffices and air terminals.

The first may be licked by a long range program for fully automatic electronic airways, scheduled for completion by 1953. The second is being attacked with helicopters, but to be fully acceptable these machines must offer more lifting capacity, speed and range.

Monorails, subways and super highways also are being considered.

The history of mail delivery by air goes back to Richard Clayton, a famed balloonist, who carried mail unofficially on a Fourth of July flight from Cincinnati to Waverly, Ohio, in 1835. The first mail taken up with official permission was carried by John Wise and John La Mountain from Lafayette to Crawfordsville, Ind., by balloon on Aug. 16, 1859.

The first heavier-than-air mail service was an experimental route operated for ten days between a flying field and Mineola, L. I., N. Y., in September, 1911. The three pilots were a civilian, an Army captain, and a British sportsman.

The postmaster general himself, Frank H. Hitchcock, flew one trip and dropped a mail pouch at Mineola.

The post office asked for $50,000 to experiment with flying mail the next year. It got the money in 1916, but no one bid on the routes. Patience exhausted, the post office department started the service itself two years later, using Army planes and pilots.

The initial route was Washington-Philadelphia-New York, a run of 218 miles. Service was scheduled to start from the north and south terminals at 11 a. m. on May 15.

Maj. Reuben H. Fleet called the pilots together at Hazelhurst Field on Long Island the morning of May 14. The planes, he told them, had arrived from the factory and were in crates at the hangar.

When the briefing ended, the pilots raced to the shed, tore open the boxes, and began making sense out of the heaps of wire, wood, fabric, propellers and engines. The planes were taken up for test flights that afternoon, then three were flown at dusk to Philadelphia.

NO GAS FOR 'JENNY'
One continued to Washington the next morning, arriving in time for the 11 a. m. ceremony. President Wilson handed over the mail pouch. But the plane did not leave. There was no gasoline.

It took a bit of scrambling to fuel the "Jenny," and Pilot George Boyle took off late. His troubles flew with him, and in a matter of minutes he was completely lost and had to land.

A year to the day later, the Chicago-Cleveland route was begun, followed in six weeks by an extension to New York. Two years more brought a demonstration flight from coast to coast in 33 hours, a stunt which stirred Congress to provide $1,250,000 for lighting the airways. But for many more years pilots were guided by bonfires and the prayers of farmers who listened nightly for the clatter of mail planes.

Air postal service is big business today.

The airlines fly nearly 1,000 planes regularly over 130,000 miles of domestic routes and 125,000 miles of foreign routes to 72 countries. Twelve hours' flight time delivers a letter across the continent or across the Atlantic.

It costs but a nickel to send a letter by air anywhere in the United States and its possessions, and only a dime to send one anywhere in the world. About a billion letters were sent by air in this country last year, with an average trip of 1,400 miles.

Auto Output Still Below U. S. Needs

Two Millionth Car
Of Year Due In May

By DAVID J. WILKIE
(By Associated Press)

DETROIT —(AP)—The two millionth motor vehicle to be built in the United States this year is scheduled to be assembled about the end of this month.

Probably only a complete stoppage of assembly plant activities can prevent that achievement. But encouraging as that may appear to the would-be new car buyer who has waited many months for his automobile the figures are somewhat misleading.

First, the total will include more than 600,000 trucks and other commercial vehicles. Second, nearly 100,000 of the remaining 1,400,000 passenger vehicles will have been shipped to foreign markets.

So, to meet a demand now estimated at more than 5,000,000 passenger units, the industry will have delivered to its domestic dealers only about 1,300,000.

The nation's automotive factories may turn out 5,000,000 cars and trucks this year, but to do it production will have to be stepped up substantially during the latter six months. And, again, probably 1,300,000 units of the output will be commercial vehicles.

If assembly line operations remain on schedule June 1 will find the car industry only about 50,000 vehicles — both cars and trucks — ahead of last year at that date.

IT'S ANYBODY'S GUESS

June could be a banner month in car and truck output because Ford expects to be back in full production after many weeks of retooling for new models. But what lies ahead of the industry for the last half of the year is anybody's guess.

The car makers expect the European relief program to take a lot of steel, including much of the kind that is used in their foundries and stamping mills to make automobile engines, frames and bodies. So they are not counting upon any more tonnage than they need for the July-through-December schedules.

Here's Our Photograph of the Week

PRIZE WINNER—An unusual design of shadows cast by the declining sun across a smooth lawn at Memorial park is the composition of this week's prize-winning "Photograph of the Week." The photo was taken by Miss Diane Pott, 619 Highland avenue, with a Speed Graphic camera set at 1:16 at 1/50 of a second. The News-Journal has mailed a $5 check to Miss Pott. N-J readers are invited to submit their favorite photograph. Entries must be printed on glossy paper, at least 5 by 7 inches in size, and accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your entry to the Sunday editor, News-Journal.

These schedules allow for shutdowns of varying length by many of the car makers for the change-over to their 1949 models. In some instances where radical design changes are planned these shutdowns will run four weeks or more.

Industry analysts look for major changes in most General Motors and Chrysler models before the year's end. Ford, just completing the most drastic change over since 1927, probably will make no more alterations until late next year. It has been estimated the current switch-over has cost Ford around $100,000,000 in addition to close to 80,000 units of production.

Most of the other car makers invested heavily in bringing out their current models and may do little more than "face lift" them for next year. There have been few, if any, instances in the car industry's history in which any manufacturer has made major changes in two successive years.

Stocks Ease Up Again

Oils, Rails, Metals Set Market Pace

NEW YORK — (AP) — The stock market advanced for the fourth day running Saturday but failed again to match the 21-month high hit on Monday.

Backbone of Saturday's market were oils, rails and metals. Most other issues moved around more or less aimlessly, few changing more than fractions either way from the previous close.

Volume was $30,000,000 shares.

Among the fastest stocks were Skelly Oil and Mission Corp. Skelly pulled out of a 3-point losing streak to close unchanged at 135 while Mission sprinted ahead 3 to 69 1/2. Pacific Western at 59 was up a point and smaller gains were tacked on for Sunray, Tide Water, Standard Oil (N.J.) and Texas Company.

Other stocks marked up included Colorado Fuel & Iron at 19 1/2, Kennecott 57 1/2, American Tele-

Coal Royalty Backs Fund, Report Says

Opinion of Actuary

WASHINGTON — (AP) — John L. Lewis made public Saturday a pension expert's report which concluded that the present 10-cent-a-ton royalty on coal could pay 60-year-old miners $100 a month and still leave a $210,000,000 fund at the end of 10 years.

The report was prepared by Murray W. Latimer, former chairman of the U. S. Railroad Retirement board, who was asked by the United Mine Workers union to make a study. It attacked a study in the same field by a firm of Philadelphia actuaries hired by Ezra Van Horn, the soft coal operators' trustee.

For that reason the report was useful to Lewis as part of his word battle with the operators. But it could hardly be used to bolster any move for an increase in the 10-cent royalty in forthcoming contract negotiations.

On the other hand, the operators' report painted a much darker picture of what could be done with 10 cents a ton. The Philadelphia firm said that $35,000,000 would have to be set aside annually just to finance a $50 monthly pension for miners over 65 years old.

Lewis has served notice that pensions will be a big issue in negotiations, when they get going.

Scheduled negotiations between Lewis and the operators toward a new contract halted

Offer $1,054 Confession

The defendants in a $1,054 action have offered to confess judgment in the case for $50, a common pleas court journal entry showed yesterday.

The defendants, Harold and Ethel Vogelsang, Butler, were sued for the sum by Joseph and Mary Miles of Butler. They alleged that after they obtained a deed to a property in Worthington township which they purchased from the Vogelsangs, certain fixtures included in the deal were removed.

They charged that the Vogelsangs dug up lawn trees and shrubbery following delivery of the deed. The court ordered the defendants to serve the plaintiffs a copy of their offer and the journal entry. The court directed that the plaintiffs accept or refuse the abruptly Wednesday because Lewis would not agree to seat the representative of the Southern Coal Producers association. He called it a "propaganda organization."

Latimer said the current 10-cent royalty, provided in the one year contract signed last July, would yield $55,710,000 annually. Of this, $710,000 could be used for administration of the fund. He thought 22,000 miners would retire in the first year.

Girl Hurt Seriously

The condition of Miss Miriam Pugh, 24, Mansfield, R. D. 2, Kent State university senior, was reported "serious" yesterday by attaches of St. Thomas hospital, Akron, where she is a patient.

Miss Pugh was injured Friday afternoon in a crash landing of a two-seater plane at the university airport near Stowe, O. She was to graduate June 12.

Evelyn Pugh, the injured girl's sister, said she received head, back and ankle injuries. She quoted doctors as saying that the girl's back is fractured,

Also that she didn't believe her back is broken.

She said her ankle is dislocated and the doctors said they believed there might be a splintered bone.

Also seriously injured in the crash was Miss Pugh's companion, Richard Johnson, 26, of Cleveland, pilot of the plane.

The plane was caught in a strong, tricky wind in landing, causing it to stall a few feet off the ground, witnesses said. The plane was demolished.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The state health council Saturday ordered the city of Fremont and the Great Lakes Sugar company to halt pollution of the Sandusky river with beet sugar waste and sewage by Sept. 22, 1949.

Mansfielders Face Busy Week

Mansfielders will have plenty of entertainment this week. The city's first ice show, a stage show, circus and three lawn fetes are scheduled.

Vaughn Monroe's orchestra and variety show opens the festivities Wednesday at the Madison theater with a matinee performance at 3:30 p. m. and evening performances at 7 and 9:15 p. m.

Thursday brings Cole Bros. circus to town for afternoon and evening performances at the Fairground. Shows will begin at 2:15 and 8 p. m. with many new features booked to go under the big top. Scheduled for the same night is the annual Bowman school lawn fete, beginning at 5:30 p. m. Climax of the activity comes Friday night when the city's first ice show opens for a six-day stand at the Coliseum with the "curtain" going up at 8:30 p. m. In other sections of the city, the Prospect and West Fifth school yards will be strung with blazing lights for their annual lawn fetes.

Parent Club Has Election

David Hughes has been elected president of the Senior High School Band Parents' club.

Other officers of the club are William Lay, vice president; Lawrence Robinson, treasurer, and Mrs. Clyde Garn, secretary. The club is making arrangements for the annual band picnic June 6 for band members and their parents. The picnic will include the incoming members of the band ninth grade students from Appleseed and Simpson schools.

Taft Asks Crusade For U. S.

'Build Policy Around U. N.'

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON, N. Y.—Sen. Robert A. Taft said last night that the "one way in which we can finally prevail" in world affairs is to "crusade for the principles of free government throughout the world as the communists crusade for communism."

The Senator said that "to regain the respect of the world" the U. S. should show leadership in a revision of the United Nations charter.

"I believe our foreign policy should be built as far as possible around the United Nations," Taft said, adding that he believed the charter could be rewritten so that "we can establish a world in which the great majority of nations will abide by a rule of law to which they have all agreed."

"I believe there can be established an international force backed by public opinion and the armed forces of individual states which will punish any violation of that law."

ASKS GOP TO AGREE
In a speech at Bard college, he said there has "only been a bi-partisan policy in a few limited fields. In most matters the President makes the policy and asks us, the Republican party, to agree to it."

"We have usually done so in order that the prestige of America may not be destroyed because of conflicting voices in high authority."

But, added the Ohio Republican, an aspirant for his party's presidential nomination:

"As we approach an election, however, it is certainly our right and our duty to point out the fallacies of the policies which have been pursued, and present the policies of our party which will guide us if the people elect a Republican President."

OPOSE COMMUNISM
The U. S. foreign policy, he said, should, in part, be based on "consistent opposition to the spread of communism in this country and throughout the world."

The spread of communism "is the direct result of our own policies," he said, adding that for years "we seem to have been dominated by a friendly attitude toward communism, and a complete inferiority complex to Russia."

"Whatever they asked, they received, and gave nothing in return. This failure in foreign policy was not chance. It resulted from the character of the whole administration."

"Men like Henry Wallace, the vice-president and secretary of commerce, considered communism just another form of democracy—perhaps a little better than our form of democracy. Harry Hopkins, the President's adviser on foreign affairs, was extremely friendly to the communist regime."

Today, Taft added, although communist influence has declined,

Life's a Whirl—And Not So Merry!

Reporter Has 'Fast' Time on His Hands

By BOB EDWARDS
Two weeks ago life was very simple and uncomplicated. All I had to worry about was the possibility of another war, meeting the payments on my car, and Westbrook Pegler.

My days slipped along in a pleasant, easy rut. I got my eight hours sleep each night, ate three substantial meals a day and enjoyed the eight hours work at the office.

Then it happened.
Ashland went on "fast" time—Mansfield stayed on "slow" time. Since I live in Ashland and work in Mansfield, I was caught in the vortex of the time whirl.

Suddenly I found myself with 23 hours a day (or is it 25?) instead of the old-fashioned good-enough-for-my-father-good-enough-for-me-24.

The first day of the time change, I arose at my customary hour, I felt wonderful and raised my voice in the first sweet notes of that sentimental ditty "She's Too Fat For Me."

IT'S CONFUSING

Then I spied the hall clock, set an hour ahead to correspond with Ashland "fast" time—although I didn't know it. Egad! I was already late for work!

That morning I drove as I'd never driven before. I made the thirteen miles between Ashland in 11½ minutes.

(I'm only kidding, officer!)

With Mansfield on "slow" time, I got to the office a half hour early, when my lazing boss reminded me of the one-hour difference in time. He laughed. Ha! Such a comic!

That night at home I set the hall clock back an hour to coincide with Mansfield time. I'd told my mother what happened, and without my knowledge, she, too, put the clock an hour not knowing that I had done the same thing only a few minutes before.

The next day after a leisurely drive without incident through the greening countryside, I strolled, whistling, into the office.

THE BOSS SCREAMS

The office clock, of course, showed me to be an hour late!

The boss screamed at me. He peppered me with pencils, a paperweight and his typewriter.

He made nasty remarks about "banker's hours." He inquired about my preference to writing for the paper or selling it on street corners.

Now I eat only two meals a day, because I get home an hour after supper time. I don't sleep at night for fear I won't get up in time for work.

My eyes are getting weak from keeping too close a watch on the two wrist watches—one Ashland time, one Mansfield time—and one chronometer I carry. (The chronometer is based on Greenwich Mean Time.) "Mean" time is right—if you see what I mean.)

"there seems to be curious areas in some of the bureaus where opposition to Russia is still deplored."

FRUSTRATED REPORTER—The time machine went haywire for N-J Reporter Bob Edwards when Ashland, his home town, went on fast time. Edwards is shown trying to calculate just how long it takes him to drive from Ashland to Mansfield, taking into consideration Ashland Fast Time, Mansfield Slow Time and Greenwich Mean Time. He feels rather mean about the whole thing. In one hand he's holding a slide rule while with the other he computes figures on an adding machine. Note the three wrist watches—they tell AFS, MST and GMT, respectively. Under his left arm is a almanac, while beside the adding machine is an alarm clock—to bring him out of a daze.—(N-J photo)

21 Young Artists Stage Their Own Exhibition

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Twenty-one young Mansfielders crash the art world today when their sketches and paintings are exhibited to the public.

They are the art students of Mrs. Bruce McGinty (Betsy Cave McGinty) herself a popular Mansfield artist who started the class last October.

At 3 p. m. today when the exhibition opens in the third-floor studio at 42 Blymyer avenue the dreamed-of goal of every boy and girl in the class will be reached.

Even the punch and cookies which will be served to the visiting "critics" have been made by the students—determined to make their "show" just like a grown-up exhibition.

There will be pleasant surprises, too, for 14 of the pupils whose work has been rated best of the group will be awarded first, second and honorable mention prizes. Until today, the pupils had no idea that their drawings were being given a critical once-over by their instructor and Mansfield Artist John Bernat, judges of the city's first "junior art show."

First prize in water color, "Two Dolls", goes to 11-year-old Billy Schettler, son of Judge and Mrs. H. H. Schettler, 139 Glenwood boulevard. Also sharing the spotlight for her work in the difficult medium is Molly Maxwell, 9, daughter of Mrs. Frank Maxwell, 103 Parkwood boulevard.

GIRL, 16, WINS

Oldest member of the group, 16-year-old Susan Stoodt won first prize for her chalk work, entitled, "Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy." Second prize for "Peter and the Wolf", inspired by Prokofiev's tone poem of the same name, was won by Tommy Gentile, 11. Miss Stoodt is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. P. A. Stoodt, 67 Brinkerhoff avenue. Ten-year-old Tommy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gentile, rear 203 Miller street.

First prize for figure sketches in charcoal goes to Michael Lusignan, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Lusignan, 571 Edgewood road. Second prize for the charcoal study of "Dancing Clown" went to David Bourns, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Bourns, 590 Russell road.

Receiving honorable mention are: Susie Wolfe, Barbara Kann, Meredith Miller, Anne Lusignan, Richard Peard, Sally Stoodt, Michael Lusignan, Charlotte Calene, Penny Schettler, David Bourns and Tommy Gentile.

The youngest contributing artist in the group is Kathleen Lusignan, six years old.

The show closes the lessons for the season. When the class began last October, 10 children were enrolled. In two weeks time it had grown to 20 children. For the past several months Mrs. McGinty has found it necessary to hold a Saturday morning class for beginners and a small class for the advanced in the afternoon.

Flash Floods Bring Trouble To Inspectors

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—(AP) When it rains and snows, pity the poor guy who has to go out and see what's happening. He's the water inspector or water commissioner as he's known in western communities. It's his job to protect the vital lifeline of the drylands—the dams and reservoirs and irrigation ditches.

In El Paso county, he's J. M. Pribble. In 19 years on the job, he's fought through every kind of bad weather—except a typhoon. When there's a flash flood, Pribble has to see that the runoff doesn't run off with the gates along the ditches. He must make weekly measurements of all available water and snow. He must find out how fast it's disappearing and advise farmers and water companies accordingly.

Wet weather doesn't bother Pribble as much as the late summer droughts. He's the policeman expected to enforce precious water rights and priorities as the supply dwindles. If a farmer is sneaking a little extra water from the ditch for his parched fields, Pribble has to stop him—and still remain his friend.

His area covers a mountain and plains region which would make a nice-sized little nation in crowded Europe. It includes eight reservoirs, with a capacity of nearly 3,000,000,000 gallons. From them run miles and miles of ditches, carrying the life blood to rich farming areas which once were dry, desolate wastes.

Art Exhibit to Be Open Today

The Mansfield Art Show at the Mansfield Public Library will be open today from 1 to 5 p. m. Thomas Zaugg, chairman of the May show committee, announced yesterday. The annual art show closes Wednesday at 8 p. m.

Zaugg reported a "very good" response to the show. He said many pupils of art classes and grade schools had visited the show in groups.

Zaugg said the show was open today to give residents of sur-

Girls to Model Dresses at School

Three Mansfield students at Bowling Green State university will model garments they have made this year in the home economics department at a style show to be presented May 24 on the university campus.

"The History Book Look" is the title of the presentation which will show trends in women's fashions during and after wars in the United States, dating back to the American Revolution. This will show the similarity in fashions of 1918 and earlier periods of history.

The Mansfield models will be Donna Pugh, Mansfield, R. D. 2; Mary Lou Gibson, R. D. 1, and Ruth Swisher, 1131 Sunset boulevard.

Coal Royalty Backs Fund, Report Says

Opinion of Actuary

WASHINGTON — (AP) — John L. Lewis made public Saturday a pension expert's report which concluded that the 10-cent royalty on coal could pay 60-year-old miners $100 a month and still leave a $210,000,000 fund at the end of 10 years.

The report was prepared by Murray W. Latimer, former chairman of the U. S. Railroad Retirement board, who was asked by the United Mine Workers union to make a study. It attacked a study in the same field by a firm of Philadelphia actuaries hired by Ezra Van Horn, the soft coal operators' trustee.

For that reason the report was useful to Lewis as part of his word battle with the operators. But it could hardly be used to bolster any move for an increase in the 10-cent royalty in forthcoming contract negotiations.

On the other hand, the operators' report painted a much darker picture of what could be done with 10 cents a ton. The Philadelphia firm said that $35,000,000 would have to be set aside annually just to finance a $50 monthly pension for miners over 65 years old.

Lewis has served notice that pensions will be a big issue in negotiations, when they get going.

Scheduled negotiations between Lewis and the operators toward a new contract halted.

Offer $1,051 Confession

The defendants in a $1,054 action have offered to confess judgment in the case for $50, a common pleas court journal entry showed yesterday.

The defendants, Harold and Ethel Vogelsang, Butler, were sued for the sum by Joseph and Mary Miles of Butler. They alleged that after they obtained a deed to a property in Worthington township which they purchased from the Vogelsangs, certain fixtures included in the deal were removed.

They charged that the Vogelsangs dug up lawn trees and shrubbery following delivery of the deed. The court ordered the defendants to serve the plaintiffs a copy of their offer and the journal entry. The court directed that the plaintiffs accept or refuse the abruptly Wednesday because Lewis would not agree to seat the representative of the Southern Coal Producers association. He called it a "propaganda organization."

Latimer said the current 10-cent royalty, provided in the one year contract signed last July, would yield $55,710,000 annually. Of this, $710,000 could be used for administration of the fund. He thought 22,000 miners would retire in the first year.

Girl Hurt Seriously

The condition of Miss Miriam Pugh, 24, Mansfield, R. D. 2, Kent State university senior, was reported "serious" yesterday by attaches of St. Thomas hospital, Akron, where she is a patient.

Miss Pugh was injured Friday afternoon in a crash landing of a two-seater plane at the university airport near Stowe, O. She was to graduate June 12.

Evelyn Pugh, the injured girl's sister, said she received head, back and ankle injuries. She quoted doctors as saying that the girl's back is fractured, but that they don't believe her back is broken.

She said her ankle is dislocated and the doctors said they believed there might be a splintered bone.

Also seriously injured in the crash was Miss Pugh's companion, Richard Johnson, 26, of Cleveland, pilot of the plane.

The plane was caught in a strong, tricky wind in landing, causing it to stall a few feet off the ground, witnesses said. The plane was demolished.

COUNCIL CITES FREMONT

Mansfielders Face Busy Week

Mansfielders will have plenty of entertainment this week. The city's first ice show, a stage show, circus and three lawn fetes are scheduled.

Vaughn Monroe's orchestra and variety show opens the festivities Wednesday at the Madison theater with a matinee performance at 3:30 p. m. and evening performances at 7 and 9:15 p. m.

Thursday brings Cole Bros. circus to town for afternoon and evening performances at the Fairground. Shows will begin at 2:15 and 8 p. m. with many new features booked to go under the big top. Scheduled for the same night is the annual Bowman school lawn fete, beginning at 5:30 p. m.

Climax of the activity comes

Friday night when the city's first ice show opens for a six-day stand at the Coliseum, with the "curtain" going up at 8:30 p. m. In other sections of the city, the Prospect and West Fifth school yards will be strung with blazing lights for their annual lawn fetes.

Taft Asks Crusade For U. S.

'Build Policy Around U. N.'

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON, N. Y.—Sen. Robert A. Taft said last night that the "one way in which we can finally prevail" in world affairs is to "crusade for the principles of free government throughout the world as the communists crusade for communism."

The Senator said that "to regain the respect of the world" the U. S. should show leadership in a revision of the United Nations charter.

"I believe our foreign policy should be built as far as possible around the United Nations," Taft said, adding that he believed the charter could be rewritten so that "we can establish a world in which the great majority of nations will abide by a rule of law to which they have all agreed."

"I believe there can be established an international force backed by public opinion and the armed forces of individual states which will punish any violation of that law."

ASKS GOP TO AGREE

In a speech at Bard college, he said there has "only been a bipartisan policy in a few limited fields. In most matters the President makes the policy and asks us, the Republican party, to agree to it."

"We have usually done so in order that the prestige of America may not be destroyed because of conflicting voices in high authority."

But, added the Ohio Republican, an aspirant for his party's presidential nomination:

"As we approach an election, however, it is certainly our right and our duty to point out the fallacies of the policies which have been pursued, and present the policies of our party which will guide us if the people elect a Republican President."

OPPOSE COMMUNISM

The U. S. foreign policy, he said, should, in part, be based on "consistent opposition to the spread of communism in this country and throughout the world."

The spread of communism "is the direct result of our own policies," he said, adding that for years "we seem to have been dominated by a friendly attitude toward communism, and a complete inferiority complex to Russia."

"Whatever they asked, they received, and gave nothing in return. This failure in foreign policy was not chance. It resulted from the character of the whole administration."

"Men like Henry Wallace, the vice-president and secretary of commerce, considered communism just another form of democracy—perhaps a little better than our form of democracy. Harry Hopkins, the President's adviser on foreign affairs, was extremely friendly to the communist regime."

Today, Taft added, although communist influence has declined,

Life's a Whirl—And Not So Merry!

Reporter Has 'Fast' Time on His Hands

By BOB EDWARDS

Two weeks ago life was very simple and uncomplicated. All I had to worry about was the possibility of another war, meeting the payments on my car, and Westbrook Pegler.

My days slipped along in a pleasant, easy rut. I got my eight hours sleep each night, ate three substantial meals a day and enjoyed the eight hours work at the office.

Then it happened.

Ashland went on "fast" time—Mansfield stayed on "slow" time. Since I live in Ashland and work in Mansfield, I was caught in the vortex of the time whirl.

Suddenly I found myself with 23 hours a day (or is it 25?) instead of the old-fashioned good-enough-for-my-father-good-enough-for-me-24.

The first day of the time change I arose at my customary hour. It felt wonderful and raised my voice in the first sweet notes of that sentimental ditty "She's Too Fat For Me."

IT'S CONFUSING

Then I spied the hall clock, set an hour ahead to correspond with Ashland "fast" time—although I didn't know it. Egad! I was already late for work!

That morning I drove as I'd never driven before. I made the thirteen miles between Ashland in 11½ minutes.

(I'm only kidding, officer!)

With Mansfield on "slow" time, I got to the office a half hour early, when my laughing boss reminded me of the one hour difference in time. He laughed. Ha! Such a comic!

That night at home I set the hall clock back an hour to coincide with Mansfield time. I'd told my mother what happened, and without my knowledge, she, too, put the clock an hour not knowing that I had done the same thing only a few minutes before.

The next day after a leisurely drive without incident through the green countryside, I strolled, whistling, into the office.

THE BOSS SREAMS

The office clock, of course, showed me to be an hour late!

The boss screamed at me. He peppered me with pencils, a paperweight and his typewriter. He made nasty remarks about "banker's hours." He inquired about my preference to writing for the paper or selling it on street corners.

Now I eat only two meals a day, because I get home an hour after suppertime. I don't sleep at night for fear I won't get up in time for work.

My eyes are getting weak from keeping too close a watch on the two wrist watches—one Ashland time, one Mansfield time—and one chronometer I carry. (The chronometer is based on Greenwich Mean Time.) "Mean" time is right—if you see what I mean.)

"there seems to be curious areas in some of the bureaus where opposition to Russia is still declined."

FRUSTRATED REPORTER—The time machine went haywire for N-J Reporter Bob Edwards when Ashland, his home town, went on fast time. Edwards is shown trying to calculate just how long it takes him to drive from Ashland to Mansfield, taking into consideration Ashland Fast Time, Mansfield Slow Time and Greenwich Mean Time. He feels rather mean about the whole thing. In one hand he's holding a slide rule while with the other he computes figures on an adding machine. Note the three wrist watches—they tell AFS, MST and GMT, respectively. Under his left arm is a almanac, while beside the adding machine is an alarm clock—to bring him out of a daze.—(N-J photo)

21 Young Artists Stage Their Own Exhibition

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Twenty-one young Mansfielders crash the art world today when their sketches and paintings are exhibited to the public.

They are the art students of Mrs. Bruce McGinty (Betsy Cave McGinty) herself a popular Mansfield artist who started the class last October.

At 3 p. m. today when the exhibition opens in the third-floor studio at 42 Blymyer avenue the dreamed-of goal of every boy and girl in the class will be reached.

Even the punch and cookies which will be served to the visiting "critics" have been made by the students—determined to make their "show" just like a grown-up exhibition.

There will be pleasant surprises, too, for 14 of the pupils whose work has been rated best of the group will be awarded first, second and honorable mention prizes. Until today, the pupils had no ideas that their drawings were being given a critical once-over by their instructor and Mansfield Artist John Bernat, judges of the city's first "junior art show."

First prize in water color, "Two Dolls," goes to 11-year-old Billy Schettler, son of Judge and Mrs. H. H. Schettler, 139 Glenwood boulevard. Also sharing the spot light for her work in the difficult medium is Molly Maxwell, 9, daughter of Mrs. Frank Maxwell, 103 Parkwood boulevard.

GIRL, 16, WINS

Oldest member of the group, 16-year-old Susan Stoodt won first prize for her chalk work, entitled, "Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy." Second prize for "Peter and the Wolf", inspired by Prokofiev's tone poem of the same name, was won by Tommy Gentille, III. Miss Stoodt is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. P. A. Stoodt, 67 Brinkerhoff avenue. Ten-year-old Tommy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gentille, rear 203 Miller street.

Receiving honorable mention are: Susie Wolfe, Barbara Kann, Meredith Miller, Anne Lusignan, Richard Peard, Sally Stoodt, Michael Lusignan, Charlotte Cagene, Penny Schettler, David Bourns and Tommy Gentille. The youngest contributing artist in the group is Kathleen Lusignan, six years old.

The show closes the lessons for the season. When the class began last October, 10 children were enrolled. In two weeks time it had grown to 20 children. For the past several months Mrs. McGinty has found it necessary to hold a Saturday morning class for beginners and a small class for the advanced in the afternoon.

Flash Floods Bring Trouble To Inspectors

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—

When it rains and snows, pity the poor guy who has to go out and see what's happening. He's the water inspector, or water commissioner as he's known in western communities. It's his job to protect the vital lifeline of the drylands—the dams and reservoirs and irrigation ditches.

In El Paso county, he's J. M. Pribble. In 19 years on the job, he's fought through every kind of bad weather—except a typhoon. When there's a flash flood, Pribble has to see that the runoff doesn't run off with the gates along the ditches. He must make weekly measurements of all available water—and snow. He must find out how fast it's disappearing and advise farmers and water companies accordingly.

Wet weather doesn't bother Pribble as much as the late summer droughts. He's the policeman expected to enforce precious water rights and priorities as the supply dwindles. If a farmer is sneaking a little extra water from the ditch for his parched fields, Pribble has to stop him—and still remain his friend.

This area covers a mountain and plains region which would make a nice-sized little nation in crowded Europe. It includes eight reservoirs, with a capacity of nearly 3,000,000,000 gallons. From them run miles and miles of ditches, carrying the life blood to rich farming areas which once were dry, desolate wastes.

Art Exhibit to Be Open Today

The Mansfield Art Show at the Mansfield Public Library will be open today from 1 to 5 p. m. Thomas Zaugg, chairman of the May show committee, announced yesterday. The annual art show closes Wednesday at 8 p. m.

Zaugg reported a "very good" response to the show. He said many pupils of art classes and grade schools had visited the show in groups.

Zaugg said the show was open today to give residents of sur-

Girls to Model Dresses at School

Three Mansfield students at Bowling Green State university will model garments they have made this year in the home economics department at a style show to be presented May 24 on the university campus.

"The History Book Look" is the title of the presentation which will show trends in women's fashions during and after wars in the United States, dating back to the American Revolution. This will show the similarity in fashions of 1918 and earlier periods of history.

The Mansfield models will be Donna Pugh, Mansfield, R. D. 2; Mary Lou Gibson, R. D. 1, and Ruth Swisher, 1131 Sunset boulevard.

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag
"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Can U. N. Survive Palestine Setback?

PALESTINE remains the first great test of the United Nations. When partitioning of the Holy Land was agreed upon last year it seemed that the U.N. would stand or fall by its ability to enforce the ruling. But the United States pulled the props out from under the international organization by backing down on the partitioning proposal.

That move, actually, left the U.N. right where it would have probably been anyhow—with a war between the Jews and the Arabs on its hands. If the U.N. can force cessation of this war and achieve an amicable settlement of the Palestine dispute it will have taken the first real step toward world authority. If it fails to do so, it will look somewhat like a weary shadow of the old League of Nations debating society.

Tied up in this dispute is not only a national rivalry for territory. There is an economic prize, as there is in most wars. In this instance the prize is oil.

Just how much pressure is being brought by oil interests on the British to keep supplying arms to the Arabs can only be guessed. Similarly, there is speculation about oil-interest pressure on our own state department with reference to the arms embargo and the whole Middle East situation. Russia is interested in oil, too.

It is such ramifications that make actions by a world body difficult. Only by dragging these pressures out into the open and assessing them for what they are worth in the public eye will the U.N. gain the support of world opinion that it must have to succeed.

Boys Town To Continue Service

SELDOM have so many people been saddened by the death of one man as was the case when word came that Father Flanagan, founder of Boys Town, had died of a heart ailment in Berlin, while on a tour surveying the needs of Germany's youths.

Cheered by the philosophy that "no boy is bad," Father Flanagan devoted the greater part of his life to what must have at times been the burdensome task of proving the truth of his optimistic view by turning apparently incorrigible boys into well-behaved young men through the wholesome influences provided in Boys Town, near Omaha, Neb., where there are no distinctions by reason of race, religion or color and where democracy has been demonstrated at its best.

Without money, but with supreme faith in his objective, Father Flanagan embarked in the Boys Town project more than thirty years ago, with increasing success as financial support came from people all over the country who wanted to help in the splendid work he was doing for underprivileged boys.

It is gratifying to learn that forethought was given to developing leadership which will be able to assure the continuance of Boys Town, which will long serve as a memorial to its founder, whose burial place is in the northeast corner of the chapel, it having been Father Flanagan's request that he be interred "near his boys, where they could visit him at any time."

At a time when feelings are so greatly disturbed over what is called "juvenile delinquency" it seems desirable that thoughts turn to methods employed by Father Flanagan, coupled with a hope that the faith which held him to his self-imposed tasks becomes more widespread among those who possess qualities which are essential to leadership in youth groups.

Auction Sales Continue Popular

THESE are auction days. Crowds are gathering to listen to auctioneers sing their unintelligible price spirals. The hammer drops and someone's treasure is handed to a new and gloating owner.

At sales held in country barn yards, farm animals and implements change hands. On front porches of old houses and in town halls of little villages, it is furniture, some doubtful antiques, some rare finds, that moves to new destinies.

Or the marketing may be a "private showing" in an exclusive city gallery where single items go for four or even five-figure checks. The rarest of the rare turn up at such places, things like 12th century Mesopotamia pottery, a William and Mary inlaid highboy, fabulous precious-stone jewelry from the dowry of a Hindu princess, vellum manuscripts, presentation first editions autographed by Yeats, Rossetti, Stevenson.

Material possessions are all of these, once prized by owners now passed beyond need or desire for them through death or falling fortune. Auctions are fun for buyers. They are milestones, too, that mark the brevity of life and of possession. One of the strange things in life is that people go and things remain.

Formula For Friendly Relations

THE WAY to get friendly relations between companies and their employees is not to hand out tracts telling what a wonderful thing free enterprise is, or to give lectures on company finances. So James O. Rice, editor of the American Management Association told a Texas conference on industrial relations.

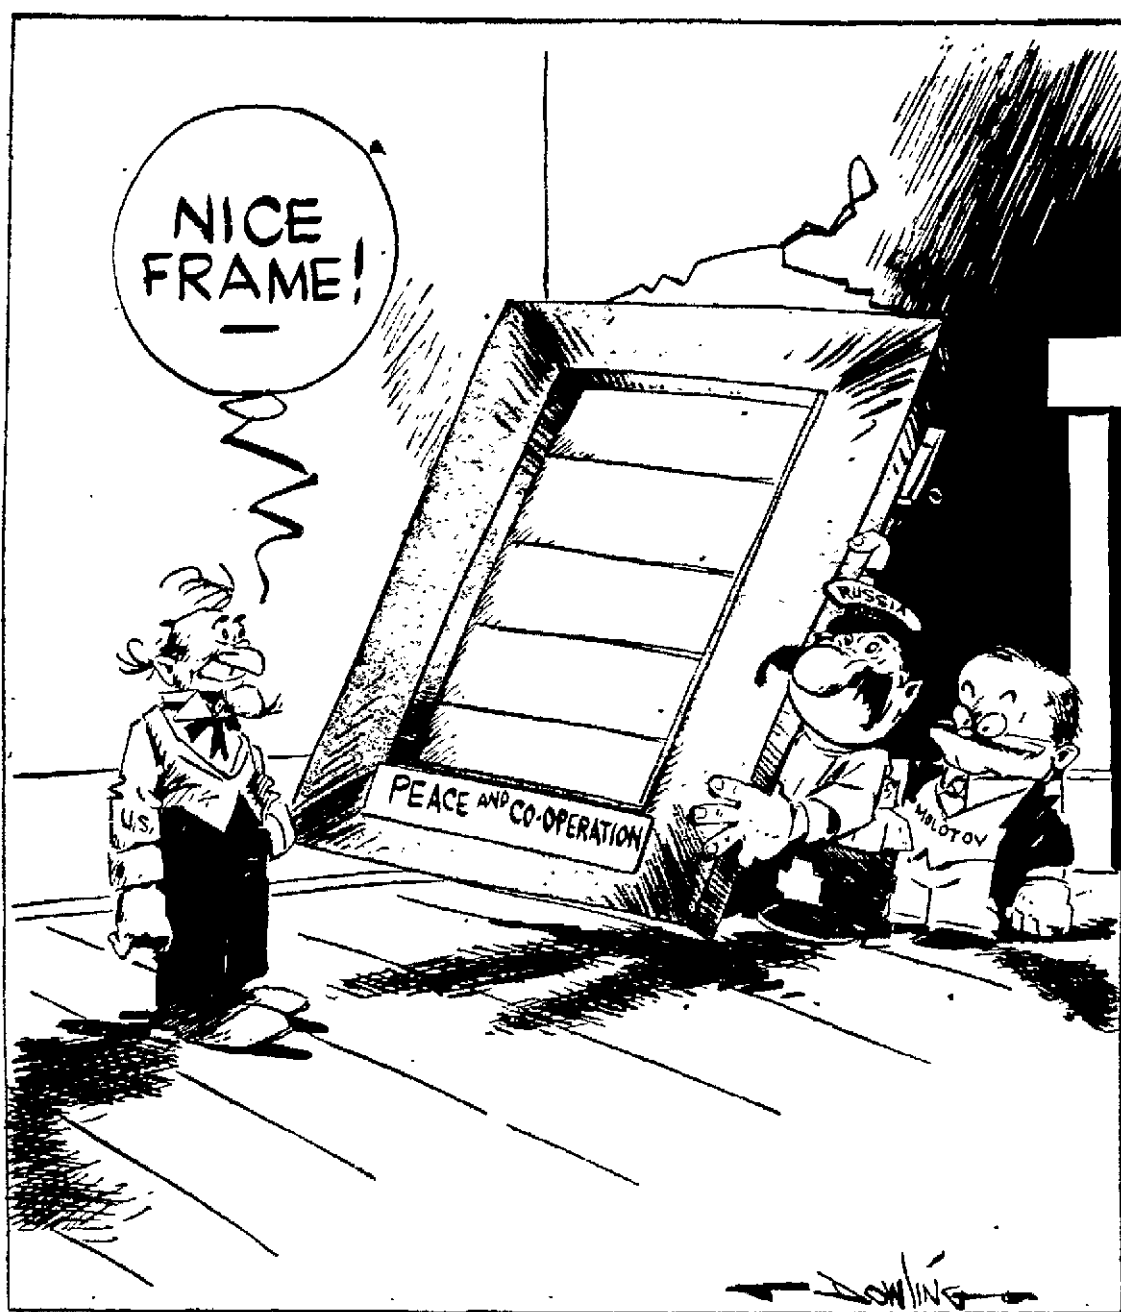

Far more important is respect for the individual worker, shown by such small matters as the look in a foreman's eye when he gives an order, the care taken of a man who has been hurt, the upkeep of cafeterias and wash rooms.

Workmen like to be treated justly and fairly. The problem for companies is not merely to do this, but to get the company's intentions across. Information about the business as a whole and decent, kindly appreciation of the worker as an individual are both needed.

"Literature is a drug. All the markets are overstocked." This remark was not made this year, although the output of new books is overwhelming. It was made by the editor of a magazine called "Brother Jonathan," in 1842.

Someone asks, "Where are our Washingtons and Lincolns now?"—and the answer may be that recognition of outstanding greatness seldom comes during the same generation in which a man lives.

Claude Callan says most of us are glad to return good for evil if we are sure the good will sting our enemies more.

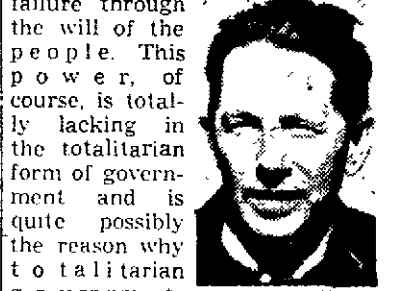

The Frame's There, But Where's the Picture?

A Voice From the Country

Awakening to Need For Political Reform

PERHAPS the greatest virtue and strength of a republic is its power to correct its own errors, corruption or failure through the will of the people. This power, of course, is totally lacking in the totalitarian form of government, and is quite possibly the reason why totalitarian governments and all forms of tyranny live for a limited length of time and then either progress through revolution into real democracy or simply disintegrate into chaos and anarchy.

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

If there were no other test, this test of endurance and self-correction would in itself be sufficient to prove the superiority of the democratic form of government over any other political system of government yet involved.

We are at the moment in the midst of one of those periods when this great republic is putting its house in order. Through the will of the people, it is cleaning up and revitalizing political party organizations—a process which from time to time becomes necessary when such organizations become corrupt, mislead with age or merely machines functioning to give government jobs to ward leaders and hangers-on.

I am a great believer in the two-party system and in sound party organization but there is nothing sacrosanct about either, notwithstanding the implications of a great political organization leader like Jim Farley.

The fact is that the people have served notice upon party organizations everywhere to clean house and make sense and return to serving the interests of the people rather than of the politicians.

The once great Democratic party is in a state of utter disintegration, with no organization either in nation or state worthy of the name. Made up of a variety of conflicting elements and held together for a long period solely by the political genius of two men—Franklin D. Roosevelt and James Farley—this disintegration was inevitable when both or either one of them moved out.

No small element of the party's strength lay in the fact that the one had possessed an almost unerring flair for the popular policy of the moment, and the other the talent for organization of a truly great executive.

Mr. Roosevelt's weakness was the weakness of the demagogue side of his character—that eventually he would be found out. Mr. Farley's weakness lay in his belief that the party organization could never be wrong as long as it remained unified and functioned in an orderly manner.

OF THE great Democratic party machines, functioning mostly in the great city areas, only one remains intact and powerful—the Crump organization in Memphis. The others—Tammany, Pendergast, Kelly and Hague and their influences—are gone with the wind. In every case there were sound reasons why the voters came eventually to have enough of them.

The failure and disintegration of other local and state Democratic organizations everywhere arose largely from the fact that under the long "political" reign of the Democrats, they forgot that party organizations, no less than any government official up to the highest, are in the end servants of the people.

Instead they concentrated everywhere more and more upon spoils, patronage and the nomination of men who were frequently little more than servants of the local organization. Of this, the people have eventually had enough.

We have just witnessed in my own state of Ohio, a devastating example of the discipline of a party organization by the people.

The Democratic organization, worn and creaking at the joints with all the ills of an organization degenerated into a bureau for finding jobs for political hacks, saw the primary defeat of its candidate in an overwhelming three-to-one majority by ex-Governor Frank Lausche, winning without any organization and with the expenditure of virtually no money whatever. It was clear that a great mass of Democratic and independent voters went to the polls to repudiate the methods and control of the state Democratic party organization.

Evidence of Awakening.

THE AMAZING popularity of Stassen and Eisenhower undoubtedly has its roots in the weariness of the American people with the routine organization politicians and in their revolt against machines which tend to forget their will and their welfare.

The independent vote in the whole of the nation has never been so great as today and it is certain to have a salutary effect upon both political party organizations.

The presence in the field of Henry Wallace, despite his demagoguery and nonsense, is a healthy business. The Democrats will have to pull themselves together on some other basis than patronage, and the Republicans, if they have any sense, will not dare to risk another Harding bargain in a smoke-filled room.

Which is all very good for the nation and, most of all, for democracy in the form of a republic.

It is a refreshing spectacle demonstrating the Jefferson adage that "The sum total of the common sense of the people is the greatest and strongest force on earth." It is a force which at times seems to move too slowly but it moves nearly always in the right direction.

In a world of chaos, bureaucratic socialism and tyranny, the American people have a right to be proud of themselves.

Speaking of Your Health

Treating Foot Infection

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WITH the coming of warm weather it always seems as if ringworm infections of the feet become more common. It is true that people tend to pick up this disease during the summer, especially if they frequent infected swimming pools and beaches but, at the same time, many an old case, which seemed to disappear during the winter, flares up anew at the first hint of hot weather.

This is the time when it is likely to become severe so that, instead of merely cracking and scaling the skin, it causes the formation of blisters which burst and leave raw skin surfaces.

Many forms of treatment for ringworm of the feet have been employed. During the war, ointments containing a substance known as undercyclic acid were widely employed for various fungus disorders of the skin.

Dr. Emanuel Muskablit tried out a preparation of this type on 44 patients, twenty-eight of whom had ringworm of the feet, one of the hands, and four of the nails. The remainder had fungus infections of a different type. Of 32 patients who had ringworm infections of various parts of the body, 22 were cured. In five, the treatment was a failure, while in the other five the results were doubtful. The cure required from eleven days to three and one-half months.

Causes No Irritation.

This ointment causes no irritation of the skin, even in those with blisters and raw surfaces. It would seem that this method of treatment is quite satisfactory in most cases. However, whenever a severe ringworm infection is present, the physician should be consulted concerning the best treatment to be employed.

Unfortunately, efforts at home treatment often result in further irritation of the skin, thus making the disorder worse. In extreme cases, it may be necessary to use wet applications or to soak the feet in some antiseptic solution until the severe inflammation is cleared up. Then more active preparation to eliminate the ringworm may be employed.

Dave Boone Says:

IT BRINGS tears to your eyes to see all the trouble Stalin, Vishinsky, Molotov and Gromyko are having in their efforts to get a little cooperation and peace from somebody somewhere.

There they are wanting nothing but sweetness and light and the rest of the world seems so cold and obstructive!

All of it, except Henry Wallace, I mean. Henry is as distressed as the Kremlin boys over the failure of the rest of us to award Joe the "Pulitzer peace prize" at once and with no "look at the record" stuff.

Beatrice Lillie used to have a sketch where, constantly crossed up and shoved around by her husband, she kept saying "Why are you so good to me?" Henry wants Uncle Sam to take that angle toward Moscow.

Polk Found Greek Government 'Rotten'

WASHINGTON — Dead men tell no tales. That was why Greek terrorists tied the hands and feet of George Polk, CBS correspondent, shot him in the back and dumped him into Salonika harbor.

Polk couldn't struggle much. His back had been broken when he crashed at Gualdancal and his spine was patched with metal plates. George had been severely critical of the Greek rightist regime and so, because dead men tell no tales, he was bumped off.

However, from the blue, dead lips of George Polk comes a tale which may shake the graft-ridden Greek government to its rotten core. Certainly it will tell the American taxpayers what they are entitled to know about the millions of dollars they have dumped into Greece.

For what the murderers of George Polk did not know was that he had written letters before his death—letters which still live.

"We are fighting a tough battle over here," Polk wrote me before his death. "My feeling about Greece is that we should get in or get out, all the way. The situation is too grave for half-measures."

"Of course, the state department hopes to state off drastic decisions until after the U.S. presidential elections; but even our poorly informed American embassy doubts that this can be done."

"Yet when a reporter writes this kind of report, he comes under attack by the royalist right-wingers who are squeezing the country for their own benefit—and sending dollars out in diplomatic pouches as fast as possible. Specifically, these crooks hope to get a number of American reporters now working in Greece discredited or moved."

Americans Should Know.

NEVERTHELESS, continued Polk. "I think the American people deserve to know the kind of political machine that is rolling roughshod over the very nice Greek people."

Meet the Psychiatrists

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON—Relax, gentle reader, relax. Just ease back on that couch and take your mind off your personal worries. Things may not be nearly as bad as you think.

After all, even your psychiatrist may have schizophrenia, too!

Naturally, that idea will come as a shock to you, if you've been placing your mental problems on his shoulders for all these weeks, months or years. Somehow, you've probably come to consider him as a person immune to the trials and tribulations of ordinary worldly, workaday life.

But it just ain't so, chum. It just ain't so. Psychiatrists, it becomes our regretful duty to report, are just like human beings—only maybe more so.

Some of them are Republicans and some of them are Democrats. Some of them even are in favor of Henry Wallace. (And if you see anything psychiatric in that, please refrain from making bright remarks at the moment.)

Some of them believe that the future of psychiatry lies in the hands of the American Medical Association, and some of them believe that the A. M. A. spells only trouble for the psychiatric set.

Furthermore, they're quite willing to fight over such issues. Now all of these deductions are arrived at after approximately a week of watching the American Psychiatric Association go through its annual convention antics here in Washington. Believe me, it has been an interesting situation. Already the symptoms have disclosed several cases of obvious schizophrenia—but more of that later.

Argue About Code.

TO BEGIN with, it should be stated that, at a convention, psychiatrists act just like people. That conclusion will not be either documented herewith or discussed in detail, since there is no intent whatever to cause trouble back home for visiting psychiatrists. It merely is mentioned to point out that the boys kick the gong around at a convention just like anybody else—and if they go home with guilt on their consciences, presumably they'll have to turn on the recording machines and confide in themselves. But on to other things.

Hardly had the tell-me-your-troubles experts gathered here when the head of a local institution noted for its accommodation of the straitjacket set came up with a suggestion that the nation's 5,000-odd psychiatrists should develop a definite code of ethics. It seemed that they'd been operating under a sort of patronage code borrowed from the A.M.A. all these years, and he thought they ought to strike out on their own.

Well, now, that would seem like a simple situation to a normal citizen, but you'd be surprised how these psychiatrists hickered and battled over it. Some of them thought that some of the others were motivated in their viewpoints by theories which originated elsewhere and didn't really represent their honest personal opinions—if you follow me.

Also, there was the clear-cut implication that if they'd let their subconscious speak, the

By DREW PEARSON

Polk then proceeded to tell how "the propaganda line of both the communists and the dominant rightwing Populist party has become identically the same."

"Both," he said, "are charging the United States with interference in internal Greek affairs; both are charging that Washington desires to use the Greek people for the creation of an American empire."

"For example, the secret radio station of the communist-led Greek guerrillas has said: 'The United States is interfering in Greece to suck Greece's blood for nourishment of American imperialism.'"

"Simultaneously the Athens royalist press has started plugging the same line, charging the United States with trying to establish a puppet government in the Greek capital so that Greeks will fight America's war against the Soviet Union."

"Greece's second largest newspaper, royalist 'Vrathini,' has declared that 'if one observes the notices being issued to the Greek government by American Administrator Dwight P. Griswold, one must conclude that these were formulated in Tokyo, addressed to the conquered Japanese or some other gangster-dominated country. . . . Ironically these tactics are being used by a people who, through grave blunders, surrendered Europe to the worst of enemies and now are trying to win the war which was lost at Yalta and Potsdam. . . . Further, the Americans—and our other allies—are chiefly to blame for the misery, devastation, and loss of life in Greece during the past year because of refusal to give the Greek army sufficient arms for use against the bandits in the hills.'"

Polk's Prophecy.

PROPHETICALLY, Polk then put his finger on something which has started to come true.

"For the moment," he diagnosed, "the rightwing is playing things carefully because Populist leader Tsaldaris and henchmen don't want to upset Greece's opportunity to be included in the European Recovery Program. But once Greece is included, the rightwing is prepared to move fast."

Also, there was the clear-cut implication that if they'd let their subconscious speak, the break up the coalition government, form a new one run in dictatorial fashion, send parliamentary home, replace 200 key administrative officers of the army, police, security officers, prisons, and put into effect dynamic policies."

It was only a short time after the Marshall Plan was applied to Greece that 250 Greek political prisoners were shot by the government in retaliation for the assassination of Minister of Justice Ladas.

Continuing his description of Greek rightwing intrigue against the United States, Polk wrote:

"Royalist 'Estia' asked editorially whether 'the United States expects the brave Greek army to fight a campaign with their bare hands?' Yet Major General William G. Livesay, military advisor to the American Aid Mission, has declared: 'The Greek national army as now equipped is superior in every respect to the Andartes (guerrillas) and is capable of carrying out successful offensive operations against them. . . .'"

"Royalist Greek spokesmen are demanding a large number of 'pack mountain 75 caliber artillery' because the guerrillas allegedly have 'several such weapons. Perhaps the royalist spokesmen do not know that the United States early last fall delivered fifty of these guns to Greece. Eight of the guns have been uncrated and put into use. The other forty-two guns remain in a Piraeus warehouse, a fate that is reserved for a large amount of any and all kinds of supplies today going to Greece."

No Appreciation of Aid.

"THERE is no appreciation in Greece of American aid, which since end of World War II actually has amounted to $876,500,000 in all forms of grants, UNRRA funds, gifts of supplies, etc."

"As a commentary on this situation, the highly respected Athens newspaper 'Estia' complained editorially that the United States is limited to mission efforts to get food and blankets and medicines to the 500,000 civil war refugees in northern Greece. Many of these supplies have been in government warehouses since fall despite efforts to obtain their release."

"Estia" also had unpleasant things to say about a new Greek air force flying field that now is under construction near Kozani. 'Estia' expressed the sarcastic hope that the field was not being constructed by 'American who are communist-minded like so many American Mission members.'

"This is a sample—only one among many—of the rightwing's anti-American offensive."

"Present Greek coalition government is dominated by the rightwing — with royalist appointees holding practically all key jobs. Prime Minister Themistocles Sophoulis, Liberal party chief, has complained off the record that even he can't get anything done the way he wishes; he describes himself as a 'captive' official who is officially frustrated by the men who surround him as long-term civil servants."

"So, the rightwing now is warning to the twin-pronged campaign—shell-shocking the American Aid Mission and discrediting a number of American correspondents."

"Behind this scheme is the rightwing's conviction that the United States is committed to continuing aid to Greece no matter what happens in Athens. Perhaps the rightwing is right."

"Certainly the Populists are tough guys—among the most calculating, unscrupulous, able politicians I've ever known. They are waging an embarrassingly effective campaign against the United States."

Just how tough they were George probably did not realize until he was seized in Salonika, bound hand-and-foot, shot in the back and thrown into the bay.

Going To Church

—BY ANNE CAMPBELL

When I go into church I gain a firmer hold on happiness. I step upon a higher plane. And find my burdens growing less.

Religious ideals may not be easy to understand, but grace can make it possible for me to glimpse God's glory every place.

How sweet the ordinary way When just one breath of goodness can illumine the unhappy day By lighting the dark path of man!

U. S. Replies To Soviets' 'Peace' Bid

American Prestige Remains Unshaken
By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON — (AP) — American officials said Saturday that Russia's "peace offensive" appears to be playing out without serious damage to this country's foreign policy on its prestige abroad.

Two further Soviet moves were regarded here as entirely possible, however.

1. An offer of minor concessions on any of a number of outstanding issues in the United Nations or elsewhere as though to prove Moscow's good faith in seeking settlements.

2. A full-blown propaganda campaign designed to show that Premier Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov sought to negotiate an end to the "cold war" but President Truman and Secretary Marshall blocked their efforts.

An indication that the latter course may be followed came this week in a Tass news agency dispatch charging that the Russian-American exchanges showed up an "aggressive attitude" on the part of the present government of the United States.

Responsible authorities agreed that probably the best American counterstroke to Russia's "olive branch performance" was Secretary Marshall's challenge to Premier Stalin—to prove by its actions that the Soviet union really wants improved relations with the West.

But there was little expectation among Marshall's advisers that his response would bring any concrete results. For amid the mass of words which Moscow and Washington have been hurling at each other, each is standing firm on its basic policies. And the real clash is between those policies.

In the American view, the Soviet union is really asking the United States to give up its established method of operating through the United Nations, cast aside its close contacts with Britain and France, drastically modify its plans for rebuilding Western Europe and then sit down with Russia to plan the future of the world.

All these are the things that Marshall now has said specifically the United States will not do. On his own part, he has advised the Russians that if they want to improve conditions in the world and relations with the United States they must use the agencies which have been painstakingly built up since the end of the war for the specific purpose of handling international differences.

Co. F Camp Period Set

Company F, 145th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, will go to Camp Atterbury, Ind., for two weeks training in August, Capt. Charles A. Boughton, commanding officer, said yesterday.

Boughton said the entire Mansfield unit of 41 officers and men will go to Atterbury for the training period, starting August 14.

The Guard has trained in past years at Camp Perry or at other Ohio camps.

Capt. Boughton also announced that a guard member will be on duty from 7 to 9 p. m. daily at the Army to give information on the Mansfield Guard unit.

Capt. Boughton pointed out that young men who join the Guard before the draft bill should become law will not be subject to the draft.

Marjorie Selby to Sing With Vaughn Monroe Band

The matinee Vaughn Monroe show Wednesday at the Madison theater will bring new honors to a talented Mansfield singer who will appear with the orchestra.

She is Miss Marjorie Selby, member of the graduating class at Senior high school and recent winner of a three-year scholarship to the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia.

Miss Selby has been invited by Monroe to sing with his band at 3:30 p. m. performance which will include numbers most popular with young people of junior and senior high school age.

Miss Selby who has won the applause of Mansfielders a number of times in recitals and school concerts, won the Curtis

Coleman B. Todd president of Coleman Todd and associates, Mansfield advertising agency, is observing his 56th birthday today with his wife, four sons and one of his daughters, on a family picnic celebration.

The Todds will talk tonight by telephone to their other daughter who is attending the University of Miami in Florida.

Todd, a native Mansfielder, was graduated from Mansfield high school and was attending the Cleveland Art school when he enlisted in World War I. He served 18 months overseas during the first war.

He entered World War II in 1940 with the 37th division and spent most of the ensuing years at Camp Swift, Tex., as personnel director. He was discharged from the army as a Lieutenant colonel.

Pupils Hold 'Kids Day'

Teachers Give Nod To Traditional Fete

Thursday was Kids' day at M.H.S. That is the annual occasion of dressing as you did your very first day of school—short pants, hair bows, and all.

This year a survey was made by Dave Ganyard and Ruth Ann Bush to learn of what things the teachers disapproved. Some of these were slacks, roller skates, kiddy cars or scotters dressing as bums or hillbillies. As long as the students didn't create a disturbance the teachers approved of this tradition and cooperated in every way. They placed their "OK" on bringing dolls or other toys to school, boys dressing in short pants and even bringing candy to school.

G. A. A. officers for the coming year were announced at the picnic held May 19 at South park. They are Jean Salsbury, president; Minnie Bradley, vice-president; May Nixon, secretary, and Carolyn Cline, treasurer.

At the Manhagan banquet held Wednesday night May 19 at the Sky Club medals were awarded to the following staff members: Sue Belle Biddle, editor Norman Henry, co-editor, William McGraw, boys' sports, Nancy Galbraith, girls' sports Ruth Smith, art editor, Janet Hagans typist and Marilyn Brand business manager.

It has been announced that there will be a students' night for all of next year's Mansfield Little Theater productions. Previously only two performances have been given. Now the directors will make it possible for students to see the plays at lower prices at a performance exclusively for students.

In this way they hope to encourage greater appreciation of good drama and give the young people of Mansfield and the surrounding areas an opportunity to learn to be a good and attentive audience.

Six From City to Get Ashland Degrees

Six Mansfield students at Ashland college will receive their bachelor of arts degrees at commencement exercises next Friday at 10 a. m.

Scheduled to receive degrees are Wanda Mae Beal, 84 Buckman avenue, Howard W. Reynolds, 138 Ohio street, Clara Emma Sauder, Mansfield, R. D. 2, Robert Wolfgang, 664 Springmill street, Glorene Hale, Mansfield R. D. 2 and Mary Benninghoff, 628 South Main street.

Cadillac

POPULARITY

In the short time that has elapsed since the 1948 Cadillacs were presented to America, the number of orders placed with Cadillac dealers has broken every existing record. And, every day, the car's popularity continues to grow.

There could be, of course, but one basic reason for this unprecedented swing to Cadillac: the extraordinary beauty and individuality of the new Cadillac models. For only a relatively few people have had an opportunity to drive these wonderful cars—and, thus, to learn that their performance is just as advanced as their exterior design.

Today, you can see Cadillac leadership as never before—and it is obvious that new thousands are resolving to end all compromise and make their next car the "Standard of the World." See these great motor cars in our showrooms.

Taft Voices Confidence

NEW YORK —(AP)— Senator Robert A. Taft said Saturday "I will have more delegates on the first ballot than any other candidate" at the Republican National convention.

The Ohio aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination declined to estimate the exact number of votes but said at a news conference that his campaign managers placed the total "in the neighborhood of 300."

Taft coupled his remarks about convention votes with the assertion that the result of the Oregon primary would not affect his position. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota contested for convention delegates there.

Asked if he would accept the vice presidential nomination, the senator said "The job I have now is more important than the vice presidency. I would much rather do that work than be vice president."

Taft said he did not believe there would be much difference in what the two major parties "promise to do" about American foreign policy during the campaign. "The strong issue," he said, "will be what has been done."

Latins Seek Machinery

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Below the Rio Grande, from Mexico to Argentina, there are men, both in and out of the government, who resent the large chunks of American aid going to Europe.

Latin resentment on the subject is one of the large hurdles the State Department has ahead of it in keeping friendly nations tied to the American plan for keeping the peace and rebuilding the peaceful sections of the world.

Latin resentment is not caused so much because American aid—much of it charity—is going to another portion of the world. It is rather because the Latins want American machinery to build up their own manufacturing industries. And they fear that the Marshall plan for Europe will send most of the "United States" extra machinery across the Atlantic and that little machinery will be left to ship south to the Latin countries.

There is another difference. The Latins are not so much interested in aid—free help—as they are in just the right to buy the machinery which is now very short in the world. Many of the Latin nations are able to pay cash if they can just get the allocations.

Orchestra to Play Sunday

The Mansfield All-Girl orchestra, under the direction of Will Kurtz, will give a concert at St. John's Evangelical church Sunday at 8 p. m.

Orchestra numbers, which will consist of sacred and classical compositions, will include such well known numbers as Tannhauser selection, Nevin's "Love Song," "A Vision of Salome" (descriptive), "In a Persian Market," and "Near The Cross," (sacred).

There also will be a piano solo, saxophone solo, and vocal numbers by guest soloist, Mrs. Robert Swigart.

The concert is open to the public and a silver offering will be taken.

Typewriter Stolen

Harvey Fleck reported to sheriff's deputies, Friday afternoon the theft of an L. C. Smith typewriter from his gravel pit office on the Springmill-Lexington road. Fleck said the office was broken into.

3 Men Held After Car Hits Pole

Michigan Men Cited In Traffic Crash

Three Lansing, Mich., men were held by Mansfield police yesterday in connection with a traffic accident shortly before midnight Friday in front of 759 West Fourth street.

The mishap was one of several which kept police busy Friday night and early Saturday.

Arrested were Glenn Hardman, charged with unsafe operation; Robert L. Grubb, owner of the car driven by Hardman, charged with being in physical control of a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, and Con W. Ryan, held for investigation.

Police said Hardman told them he was driving east on West Fourth and that he lost control of the car on a curve, collided with a road sign and a utility pole. Hardman said the car continued onto the lawn at the home of Mrs. Charles Rahall, 759 West Fourth street, damaging the grass.

Hardman and Grubb were cited to appear in municipal court Monday.

Mrs. Willnetta Richards, 58 Dawson avenue, suffered a minor neck sprain late Friday when the car in which she was riding figured in a three-car collision on Park Avenue West. Police said the Richards car, driven by Frank Richards, was struck from behind by a car driven by Don Stutz, Mansfield, R. D. 4, throwing it against the rear of a car driven by Kenneth Prosser, 40 Glessner avenue.

A hit-skip accident, reported by William Elias, 298 Auburn avenue, occurred at 10:15 p. m. Friday on Bowman street. Elias said his car was struck by a car bearing license No. WB-961. Police continued their investigation.

More Meat Likely Soon

CHICAGO —(AP)—Settlement of the CIO meat handlers strike at most plants throughout the country Saturday brought from industry sources forecasts of good news for housewives.

They expressed belief meat supplies probably will start spurring next week and that additional supplies may result in lower retail prices.

Even if receipts at livestock markets boom Monday, however, it will be a week or 10 days before these additional meat supplies reach the nation's butcher shops in volume.

Policewoman Exam Scheduled

Civil Service examinations for a Mansfield policewoman have been set for June 10 at the civil service room at the city building. Tom Woodard, chairman of the civil service commission, said yesterday.

Woodard said the commission hopes to make certification "the night of the examination and the successful woman will take over her duties as the city's first policewoman on June 15.

Application blanks for the examination may be obtained June 2 between 7 and 8 p. m. at the city building. Interviews with the applicants also will be held at that time.

Jobless Claims Go Up In April

COLUMBUS —(AP)—New jobless pay claims in April rose to nearly 40,000, 14 per cent above March, the bureau of unemployment compensation reported Saturday.

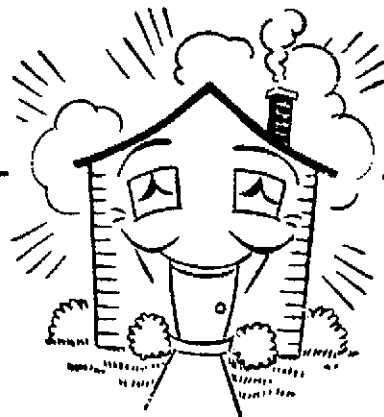

Administrator Frank J. Collopy said the figure was 36 per cent higher than in April, 1947. He added that 168,000 claims had been filed in the first four months of 1948, an increase of nine per cent over the comparable 1947

Army Learns To Operate Vehicles In Arctic Blasts

DETROIT—(AP)—The army has learned how to operate motor vehicles in Arctic winter weather. The tough problem of getting a truck to run efficiently at 60-below temperatures had the army stymied for a long time, but the solution has been worked out by engineers at the Detroit arsenal in cooperation with industrial technicians.

Capt. William Klein, of Largo, Fla., who supervised tests, sums up findings thus:

"Motor vehicles can now be operated about as efficiently at 60 below as at normal temperatures."

The army found out about warfare in the Arctic in the winter of 1946-47 when a task force of 1,142 men and 700 vehicles staged a maneuver around Fairbanks, Alaska, operating in temperatures down to 65 below.

All sorts of things happened to vehicles. Oil froze hard as rock. Batteries failed to supply current. Insulation broke off wires. Carburetors misbehaved continually. Sometimes it took hours to start an engine in the morning.

EQUIPMENT NEEDED

The winterization process developed under supervision of Detroit arsenal consists chiefly of these things:

1. Installing a gasoline heater to keep the engine, transmission and other vital parts warm at all times.

2. Lubricating with a special oil which remains liquid at lower temperatures.

3. Using special cold-resistant rubber parts and tires.

4. Heating and insulating vehicle cabs to provide for comfort of personnel.

Last fall hundreds of winterization kits were flown to the army at Fairbanks. Captain Klein, Master Sgt. Adam Asman, of Westfield, Mass., and Warrant Officer Michael Laputka, of Baltimore, went along to conduct tests and teach drivers how to use the equipment.

Col. Joseph Colby, arsenal engineer, emphasizes the strategic importance of winterization. He says that if war comes it will develop along the nearest routes between mass population centers. In our case, he says, that is by way of the Arctic.

Atom Power On Its Way

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Atomic energy may be a competitor of coal as an industrial power source within the next 10 years, the scientific director of Columbia university believes.

In a speech before an audience at Ohio State university, Dr. John Dunning of Columbia said:

"Don't be surprised if the next big power plant in Central Ohio makes use of uranium. Atomic energy may be a competitor of coal within the next 10 years."

Driver Accused After Accident

Louis Johnson, 27, of 306 Miller street, was cited yesterday by sheriff's deputies for failure to have an operator's license after his car crashed into a utility pole.

Deputies said Johnson's 1935 two-door sedan skidded into the pole near the main gate of the Empire steel mill. The car went into a ditch and then into a fence of the steel company.

Pound Keeper Shares Lunch

GARDEN CITY, N. Y.—(AP)—Pound Keeper Steve Wiseman was handed a stray 200-pound St. Bernard dog Wednesday.

The village allows him 20 cents a day to feed each canine in his care. Not enough, says the pound keeper, to buy the new inmate an appetizer.

Dogged by reproachful looks, Wiseman shares his lunch with the St. Bernard. Meanwhile, he's hoping the owner will claim his pet pronto.

New York City's history.

Approved last month by the board of estimate, the budget becomes effective July 1.

Wants Divorce Decree Vacated

A petition to vacate a divorce granted his former wife, Elnora, was filed yesterday in common pleas court by Cleve Allen Jr. The divorce was granted April 20.

Allen said in his petition he had been led to believe the action had been dropped. He says he has a valid defense. He asked that the judgment be vacated and he be given leave to file an answer and to defend the action. He is represented by Attorney George W. Coble.

Prospects Appear Dim for Lower Home Construction Costs

Leveling Off Period Seen Approaching

Ashland Shows 3 Per Cent Decline

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER

NEW YORK —(AP)— Prospects for lower construction costs for the thousands of families waiting to build new homes appear dim today.

Expert observers believe the whirlwind of spiraling building costs is slowing down—that a leveling-off period may be approaching—but they foresee no collapse in prices.

A year ago fears of recession, combined with resentment over high building costs, were blamed for starting a "buyers' strike." People who withdrew from the market in the spring, hoping for lower costs in the fall, found as much as $500 had been added to the cost of a $10,000 house by the time the "strike" was over.

Throughout the winter, costs continued upward. A national survey recently completed by the Dow Service, Inc., New York publishers of building reports, shows an average construction cost increase since last fall of five per cent in 33 states.

"The other 15 states," says Myron L. Matthews, vice president of the Dow Service, "principally in the heavily industrialized northeast and north central areas, average a two per cent rise."

Only in a few local areas, Matthews adds, have costs shown any drop. One of the towns where costs have dipped is Ashland, O.

LABOR FROZEN

Labor costs have now been frozen in many sections of the country. In the New York area, for example, contracts have been signed to June 30, 1950 with loopholes for increases if the cost of living goes higher than 15 per cent above its January 1948 level.

Guy B. Panero, head of the New York engineering firm bearing his name, says "Labor wage rates are so great a factor in the construction of buildings that it is almost impossible to foresee a decline in costs."

"Our past industrial history," Panero adds, "especially as it applies to the building trades and crafts, shows that hourly wage rates once increased are seldom decreased."

A new shortage of labor in the home building industry is becoming a matter of concern. The imminence of a re-armament program coupled with industrial demands of the European Recovery program (ERP), is regarded as a challenge by home builders.

The Long Island architectural firm of Rudolph A. Matern & Associates, for example, had been advising clients to hold off from building until recently.

"We have now switched our opinion," Matern says, "and have been advising people to build now if they must have a home within the next two or three years."

Meantime, the accumulated building demand is cited as "staggering in immensity" by J. P. H. Perry, vice president of the Turner Construction company, specialists in large scale operations.

Writing in Civil Engineering, publication of the American Society of Civil Engineers, he predicts that "the ERP will have a great effect on our national economy."

So the picture for the home builder today is that costs are now 108 per cent above prewar (1941), according to the Dow Service, although 104 per cent of that rise accumulated prior to last September, "with only the modest difference accruing since then."

The Dow survey of 111 cities found materials had increased 94 per cent since last fall while labor costs went down 33 per cent.

The survey shows the average building cost of a two-bedroom house to range as follows:

City	Price	Percent of Prewar
Ashland, Ohio	$9,000	Since Fall
Cincinnati, Ohio	10,250	down 3
Cleveland, Ohio	9,432	up 10
Columbus, Ohio	10,795	up 3
Detroit, Mich.	10,182	up 12
Los Angeles, Calif.	10,132	down 2
Portland, Ore.	9,619	up 19

Canadian Trips Popular Lure of Travel Attracts Mansfielders

When Mansfielders get the travel itch, they soothe their vagabonding instinct by visiting such exotic and faraway places as mysterious Hong Kong, ancient Rome and glamorous Buenos Aires. But the lure of foreign lands isn't irresistible. Mansfielders in great numbers are continuing a habit learned during the war years, when restrictions prevented extensive travel and Americans rediscovered that old slogan, "See America First."

With the advent of direct airline service into Mansfield, local residents in ever-increasing numbers are traveling by air. Through Trans-World Airlines, Mansfield has direct air connections with the capitals of the world.

Air travel attracts both old and young, according to Mrs. Neoma F. Moran, manager of Travel Unlimited, Mansfield's only travel agency, which recently marked its first anniversary in business.

"One very spry gentleman 80 years 'young' recently took a two-month air trip around South America," Mrs. Moran recalled. "He loved every minute of it and he still comes up to tell me about it."

"Some Mansfielders no sooner get back from one trip than they start planning another. Rail, boat and air trips all are popular. A few even use all three modes of travel."

SHIP SPACE LIMITED But with space on trans-oceanic liners difficult to book, more and more Mansfielders are planning to see America this summer.

Most popular summer trips, Mrs. Moran said, are those which include visits to Canada, Mexico and the U. S. Nassau, in the Bahamas island group, Florida, Arizona and California are favorites in the winter.

For vacationers with less time to spare, hunting cottages in Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Michigan and Ohio are popular.

Vendors' License Deadline Nears

Sale of cigarette vendor's licenses hit the 305 mark yesterday, County Auditor Norman L. Wolte reported. He expects some 500 licenses will be sold by the deadline at 1 p. m. Monday.

The licenses sell for $25. Half the sum goes to the county, the other half to the subdivision where the business is located.

'Oklahoma!' To End New York Run-But Don't Write Its Obit

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK —(AP)— Now that the most famous musical in American stage history—"Oklahoma!"—of course—finally is due to close next Saturday night, the story can be told about a previously scheduled closing a year and a half ago.

Some quarters believed the musical could run forever, but that is an optimistic canard, pleasant but impossible. There comes a time in the life of every production when it simply runs out of audience.

The Theater Guild has ads prepared announcing "Last six weeks" early in 1947 when everything on Broadway was taking its first post-war slump. But business got better just in time to cancel the closing plans.

The fifth anniversary of its arrival was duly noted at a big party in the plush Hotel Plaza a few weeks ago, attended by almost everyone who is anyone in Broadway's theatrical community.

As late as then, Theater Guild bosses still were hopeful of spanning the summer at the St. James theater.

But a new slump has come to Broadway, even before the advent of the summer's torrid weather. It therefore was deemed inadvisable to attempt to keep operating locally at a loss.

The album of records made by the show's cast has sold more than 500,000 copies, probably the champion of its field, classical or popular. Sheet music sales to date are over 2,000,000, eclipsing any other show in music publishing history.

The future? Theater Guilders expect it to tour practically permanently, with annual return visits to Manhattan of four or six weeks duration. Meanwhile, the company, abandoning the St. James theater next Saturday will hie off to Boston for four weeks as the start of a lengthy tour.

Pennsylvania Backs Martin

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— The Republican state committee of Pennsylvania unanimously endorsed Senator Edward Martin as its choice for the GOP presidential nomination.

A resolution, adopted by acclamation amid swelling reports of a Martin "boom" as a serious contender for the nomination, termed the former Pennsylvania governor "eminently qualified by exceptional ability and broad, successful experience for national leadership."

And Martin, in a speech to the convention, called for a firm, unified U. S. foreign policy, coupled with closer and stronger alliance with western nations, for mutual protection and world peace.

Pennsylvania's 73 delegates will be the second largest state block at the GOP convention here next month.

Old-Fashioned Lamps Fading
BALTIMORE —(AP)— Baltimore is beginning to replace its old-fashioned electric street lamps with modern electric fixtures. And Baltimoreans don't know whether to be sad or glad.
Everyone agrees that the old gas lamps and the lamplighters with their little ladders give the city much of its old-world charm. But they give very little in the way of light.
Baltimore has 16,700 of these old-fashioned street lamps. There will be 800 less by the end of the year if present plans work. Under the city's modernization program, 4,700 gas lights are to be replaced during the next four years.
However, in many residential sections, the city plans to keep the gas-type pole and lamp, simply adding an electric fixture.

Mansfield Product Safeguards Silage

Production of the Martin haymaker, which agricultural authorities describe as one of the most important farm developments in recent years, is now adequate to fill all orders promptly, according to the maker, Martin Steel Products corporation of Mansfield.

Curtailed for many months because of the critical shortage of steel, production in 1948 will be double that of any previous year. J. R. Mayner, vice president in charge of sales for the Martin company, announced.

The haymaker is a revolutionary new system which makes it possible to store and cure hay rapidly, with a minimum loss of nutrients. Mayner said. It provides safe storage for hay a few hours after it is cut, even though moisture content is as high as 45 per cent.

Under old-fashioned methods, hay cannot be stored until it loses most of its moisture—otherwise it will "sweat" and mold in the mow, with the danger of spontaneous combustion a possible result. Leaving the mowed hay in the field until it is dry enough to permit safe storage causes the hay to lose its rich green color, its fragrance, and its valuable minerals, vitamins and carotene.

With the haymaker, it is possible to eliminate the common hazards of over-curing by too-hot-a-sun or complete crop spoilage by possible rain. Surveys indicate that approximately 25 per cent of field cured hay is destroyed or damaged by rain.

CURES HAY QUICKLY

The secret of the haymaker's success is in the circulation of air through the stored hay. Hay is completely cured in the haymaker in about seven days, and will retain its fragrance, color and full nutritive value until it is fed several months later. Agriculture department analysis of mechanically-cured hay shows that approximately 90 per cent tests Number 1 and 2 grade, as compared to about 30 per cent for field-cured hay.

Feeding tests conducted by agricultural colleges indicate that the mechanically-cured hay is considerably more digestible, and that milk production of haymaker fed cows, both in quantity and quality, compares favorably with that of cows on fresh pasture. Cows fed hay cured the Martin-way eat four to six pounds less of grain a day.

Honor Club Names 13

GALION — Thirteen seniors of Galion high school, recently named to the National Honor Society, were recognized during annual Recognition Day assembly at Senior high school.

To qualify for membership, the student is selected for scholarship, service, leadership and character, with 50 per cent of all qualifications being for scholarship.

Members selected this year are Theodore Rehl, Dorothy McManigill, Gerald Thatcher, Patricia Poister, Barbara Schultz, Nancy Ritzhaupt, Janet Pfeiffer, Mary Lou Stough, Nancy Murphy, Richard Young, Betty Cronenweh, Harold Ramsey and Dorothy Smith.

Recognition also was given the 10 seniors who were the highest in the Galion school in the Ohio senior scholarship tests given to the upper 40 per cent of the seniors in the state.

Ten highest from Galion were Theodore Rehl, Dale Povenmire, William Foreman, Thomas Spaid, Barbara Schultz, Everett Bratcher, Dorothy McManigill, Gerald Thatcher, Leona Barrett, Nancy Ritzhaupt.

Theodore Rehl also was first in Crawford county and received honorable mention in the Bowling Green district, besides being in the upper five per cent of the total seniors taking the test in the state.

KEEPS HAY SAFE—Similar to a silo in appearance, the Martin haymaker is a cylindrical building with a center ventilating chamber. Chopped hay, blown in at the top is distributed evenly by a patented cone without tramping or handling. Air circulates through perforations in the haymaker walls, the curing hay, and the center flue. Access for feeding is through an entry large enough for a feed cart.

15-Year-Old Shelby Student Conducts Own Dance School

SHELBY—A 15-year-old Shelby high school sophomore conducts her own dancing school here under the supervision of Miss Ethyl Battin of Mansfield.

Carolyn Wilkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wilkinson of Shelby, has been teaching a class of dancers, ranging in age from three to 11 years, for the past three years. She has been tap dancing since the age of five.

At present, Miss Wilkinson is rehearsing her featured role in the dance revue to be given by Miss Battin June 4 and 5 in Mansfield Senior high school.

Miss Wilkinson gave her own revue May 8 in Shelby high school auditorium before a packed house. Twenty-two members of her dancing class took part in the revue, "Tulip Time."

It was the first full scale dance revue ever held in Shelby. Miss Wilkinson not only supervised the entire revue, but she also designed most of the beautiful costumes seen in the production.

Dancers taking part in her first revue were Tommy Baker, Carol Ann Lutz, Tommy Wilcox, Connie Adams.

Class officers are Gene Smith, class president; Calvin Bettner, vice-president; James Amstutz, secretary-treasurer and Sara Evans, social chairman.

Senior Class Sees President Truman

WASHINGTON — Members of the senior class of Cardington high school are still talking about the unexpected sight they saw while on their visit here.

They got off their train on track 3 of Union station a few days ago and, lo and behold, there was President Truman boarding his private train on track 1.

The seniors still are unable to decide which thrilled them more—the president or the huge army of secret service men surrounding him. However, they are having a wonderful time in the nation's capital and won't forget their trip for a long time.

Youth Injured By Car

BUCYRUS — Eugene Radcliff, 17, Bucyrus, was treated in City hospital Thursday night for multiple abrasions of the face, hands and left leg, and head bruises received when the motorcruiser on which he was riding was struck at Sandusky and Mary streets by a car driven by Louis T. Streib of Crestline. The driver of the car was not held.

Martinettes Meet

Two Schools Win Awards

ASHLAND — Arthur and Pleasant street elementary schools received cash awards of $10 each when the two schools tied for first place in the annual surprise fire drill contest conducted by the Ashland Lions club and Ashland Volunteer Fire department.

The surprise drills were conducted in all five elementary schools in the city with judging based on time of evacuation, conduct of pupils and observing various safety measures.

Judges were Fire Chief Paul Soles, Fireman Robert Thompson, Mayor Louis E. Mansfield, Earl E. Leed and Raymond McConnell.

Royal Neighbors Meet This Week

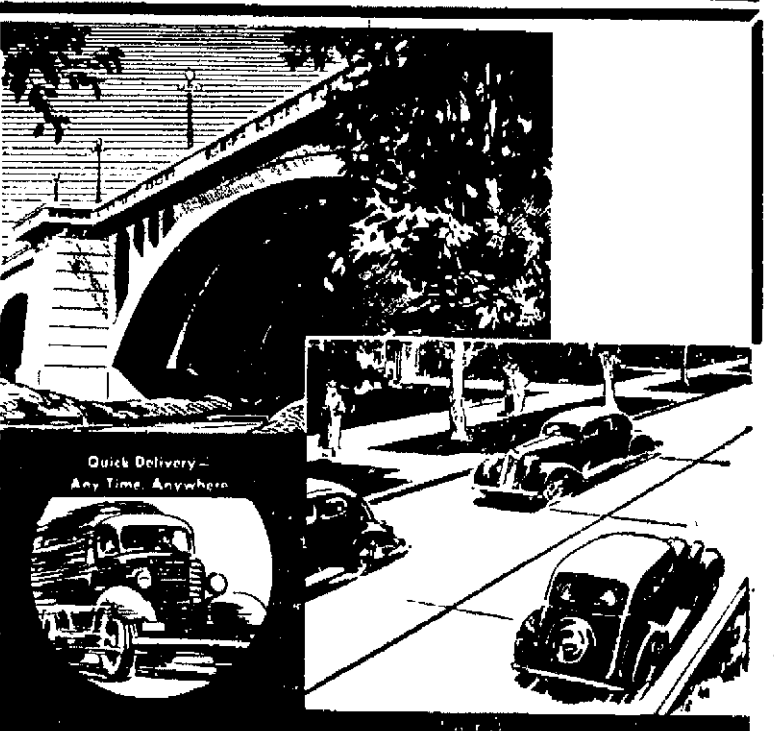

BUCYRUS — Royal Neighbors from nine central Ohio cities will meet here Wednesday for an all-day session and school of instruction. State officers are expected to be present. Cities to be represented will include Marion, Mansfield, Ashland, Shelby, Galion, Tiffin, Fremont, Fostoria, Crestline and Bucyrus.

ACT ONE (TEARS)—Young Gary Richard Markley, 16-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Forest Markley, 117 Cook road, bursts into tears when Barber George Hester starts clipping his golden curls as the child undergoes his first haircut. Gary protested vigorously during the first 10 minutes of "Operation Haircut."

ACT TWO (WONDERMENT)—After 15 minutes, Gary has forgotten his pain and astonishment and looks at Hester with interest as the barber trims the now-shorn hair with a pair of shears. Note the long curls on the apron. Hester is a barber at the Hien Barber shop, 13 West Fourth street.

ACT THREE (PROUD MOTHER AND SON)—It's all over now and Gary gives a tentative smile as his mother beams proudly. Gary's holding a piece of cotton, which his mother says "he loves to play with." Gary's hair is slicked down with hair dressing. These photos were taken by News-Journal Photographer Bill Graham.

Love Blocks Equal Rights

Women Still Place Men Above Careers

By FRANCES LEWINE

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—(AP)—The biggest block in women's fight for equal rights has been fear of "losing sex appeal," says an expert in the field.

For more than 3,000 years, reports Dr. Ida Bobula, visiting lecturer at New Jersey College (NJC) for Women of Rutgers university, men have been quick to use this potent weapon against feminists, suffragists and career women.

"Most women naturally would rather win a man's heart than fight for the right to sit beside him at a legislative session," she added.

Dr. Bobula, former professor of history at the University of Debrecen, Budapest, Hungary, was a leader in her own country's fight for woman suffrage and equal rights.

Now she is presenting the first course in "the history of women" ever given at NJC.

"The greatest revolution in the history of mankind—raising half of humanity to political equality—is essentially accomplished," she said. But the problem today, she adds, is whether women actually will participate equally with men in government.

"If we don't assume our responsibility, it may mean the greatest setback in human evolution," Dr. Bobula said.

American women are celebrating the centennial year of their fight for equal rights. "Yet not even in this fortunate country are conditions favorable for combining both a career and marriage," she said.

Dr. Bobula recalled that one hundred years ago, in July, 1848, the first women's rights convention in history was held at Seneca Falls, N. Y. Actually, she says, the fight for these rights really began as far back as recorded history can recall.

Dr. Bobula, in her college course, traces the status of women through the ages and the periodic ebb and flow of power between men and women," she says.

"Always," she adds, "women have been a force for peace and the mutual understanding of nations, for sound democratic progress and social evolution. The world badly needs some female influence."

The next practical task for women today is "to make it possible to combine a career with marriage and children," Dr. Bobula says.

This may be done, she suggests, by measures like reducing the number of working hours per day to four or six instead of eight, by providing well staffed day nurseries for young children and by the development of commercial kitchens to provide home-cooked meals at the housewife's order.

"Housework ought to be divided between men and women as a sort of partnership," Dr. Bobula says. "It is a grand thing for harmony if both know the difficulty of the struggle for a living as well as the tediousness of housework."

Eagles Appoint New Secretary

COLUMBUS —(AP)—James H. Kellner of Columbus was named state secretary of the Fraternal Order of Eagles Saturday, succeeding Matthew L. Brown of Springfield. The T.O.Y. board of trustees said that Brown, whose resignation is effective June 1, would continue as national organizing manager.

A Childhood Experience—Tommie Gets First Haircut

By NORMAN DRESSER, N-J Sunday Editor

One's first haircut is a soul-stirring experience. At 18 months of age, a child views a barber chair as an immense, somewhat terrifying object. The gleaming white enamel, that strange lever at the side of the chair, those all-enveloping aprons—all contribute to a sense of inadequacy.

To oldsters, their first haircut is at best a vague, half-forgotten memory. But to many youngsters, it's an awful experience.

Mother leads one by the hand into the barber shop. In her heart, she's half glad, half afraid. Those curls are long and golden. They're awfully cute. But when they're gone, her child is a little older—a little closer to manhood.

But mother pretends it's all a joke and a lot of fun. "Now, Tommie, we're going to have this man take off those messy curls," she says as they enter the shop. "Then your head will be nice and cool for the summer."

The child, being wise to the wiles of adults, tightens his grasp to mother's hand. The barber, a big, grey-haired man, greets the child with a hearty welcome.

Mother picks up Tommie as the barber places a board across the chair's arms. Then the child is placed on the board and the barber flips a huge striped apron across his shoulders.

The situation, it's plain to see, is becoming rather dreadful—and Tommie is frightened. The place looks like a doctor's office with the white chairs and medicine cabinets—but smells quite differently. Tommie cries a tentative sob as the barber pins the apron around his neck. Mother makes a soothing sound, so he decides to wait a bit more before protesting more vigorously.

Mother, reassured, relaxes in her seat as the barber combs Tommie's hair. Then the big man takes his scissors and clips long curls from the back of his head. The child squirms in his seat and mother watches him anxiously.

The child, becoming more suspicious by the second, turns in his seat to watch the barber as he picks up an oblong object attached to an electric cord.

"Now this will sound just like a big airplane," the barber says as he turns on the electric clipper. "As the motor buzzes, he adds, 'See? It roars like those real big planes.'"

Tommie is interested, but apprehensive. It makes a lot of noise, like a toy; but this isn't home and it certainly isn't a toy shop, either.

Then the barber begins to clip the child's hair. Tommie emits a scream of protest. Flustered, mother runs to the child's side and tenderly pats his hand. The harried barber attempts to guide the clippers evenly as the boy turns his head from side to side. At the same time, he too tries to quiet the child. Barbering, it is obvious, on occasion requires both technical skill and diplomacy.

By now Tommie is thoroughly distressed. Tears well from his eyes and his little body is shaking with anguish. The barber momentarily lays aside his clippers and combs Tommie's hair.

Like a half-sheared lamb, Tommie's head is a mass of long curls on one side and smooth and short on the other. The child looks down at his apron and seeing his shorn hair, bursts into tears again.

As the barber starts using the clippers again in a desperate attempt to finish the job, mother opens a paper bag and hands Tommie a toy jeep. She shows the child how the toy operates—"It's got real wheels, honey"—but Tommie views the gift with suspicion. However, his sobs subside a little.

By now nearly all of Tommie's curls have been clipped and the barber takes his shears to trim the hair. The child sees his image in a mirror across the room and, forgetting for a moment his distress, looks with interest at his shorn head.

The shears go "clippy-clip" as the barber trims Tommie's hair with scissors and comb. His sobs now are intermittent but he is restless. He turns his head quickly as a truck goes by the shop and the barber, with an expert maneuver, avoids slashing his ear.

Tommie's first haircut is nearly completed. The barber takes a bottle of sweet-smelling liquid and after receiving a nod from mother, pours some in his hand and vigorously massages the child's head. He squirms as the cold hair dressing chills his scalp, but the sweet odor is delightful.

Now the barber unpins his apron and combs his short, slick hair into place. Tommie, his face streaked with tears, smiles tentatively and mother looks pleased. Then the barber lifts him into standing position on the seat and the child, fearful again, reaches out his arms for mother.

Mother reaches down to steady him and Tommie smiles happily as she says, "Now we'll have a big ice cream cone."

Tommie's first haircut is finished. He has become a "little man."

Overcrowded Fish Dying

ST. LOUIS —(AP)—Not catching many fish?

H. Gordon Hanson, conservationist for the Upper Mississippi division of the Army engineers, said a survey of the river shows blue gills, wall-eye pike, crappies and black bass are jostling each other for fin room.

"About 1,000,000 pounds of crappie alone die of old age every year," he said.

Hanson added that commercial fishermen's annual catch averaging about 14,000,000 pounds isn't even making a dent in the river's fish population.

Weeds—and 29 Men—Guard Once-Busy Army Post

EDITOR'S NOTE: What has become of the great training centers where millions of American men were processed and trained for action in World War II? Here's a report on what has happened to a typical one.)

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa.—(AP)—Twenty-nine soldiers are here today instead of 25,000. Weedy streets and training fields, decaying buildings and rusting equipment are all that remain of the once spic-and-span layout.

It's a far cry from what it was, comments Lt. Col. Willie N. Thomas, acting commander for the regular army, which leases the sprawling military reservation from the state.

"Assuming this country would get hit by another day like Pearl

Part of the reservation now is being prepared for Pennsylvania National Guard units and reserve officer units, but that only represents a small portion of the 1,640 buildings scattered across the 16,423 acres.

Another officer, long experienced in camp direction, said "almost a year would be needed before the camp could be taking on full strength of manpower."

Of the 26 enlisted men and three officers, 11 men are members of the fire department. Eight men are a security patrol. Four soldiers man the tiny mess and the remaining three double in almost any duty from paper work to jeep repair.

One colonel and two majors su-perwise the work. National Guard officers take care of the guard portion of the encampment when the guard is in summer training.

Of the 17 areas into which the reservation is divided, only six are being "renovated" to accommodate the guardsmen. That includes checking plumbing, heating, leaky roofs and the like, Colonel Thomas explained.

A four showed weeds had grown high in many sections, paint was peeling badly from almost all buildings, smoke stacks were toppled over on many barracks, doors were warped open on many more, many windows were broken.

"There's just a run-down-at-the-hell feeling all over the encampment," Colonel Thomas said, "but that's the way things stand pretty much throughout the nation. We can only hope we won't have to mobilize in days."

The 28th Division was mobilized here and throughout World War II thousands of men were trained here. Then it became a demobilization center and 449,569 soldiers went back to civilian life through this encampment.

A 28-man civilian maintenance force has the never-ending task of trying to keep pace with the ravages of time on the camp where at peak operation in the war, 4,300 civilians were employed.

While the federal government has leased only 14,000 acres of the camp, the reservation actually covers 68,000 acres between mountains which open at one end to give the encampment its name. Here also is the summer mansion of Pennsylvania's governor.

Pennsy Takes Fire to Truck

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)—Firemen, answering a telephone alarm Saturday rushed to a northeast Philadelphia intersection.

They found no fire. Then three railroad men walked up.

"Don't get impatient, fellows," one of the railroaders said. "Your fire will be along in a minute."

The firemen waited. A Pennsylvania railroad locomotive came along, pushing a blazing boxcar onto a siding. The firemen went to work.

INSURANCE TAXES UP

COLUMBUS —(AP)—Out-of-state insurance companies paid $12,699,371 in taxes on premiums collected in Ohio in 1947, as compared with $11,159,269 in 1946.

Married, he lives at 27 East Second street.

China Gets New Voice

Vice President Backs Reforms

NANKING —(AP)—The voice of China's new vice president, Gen. Li Tsung-Jen, grates on the ears of Chiang Kai-Shek and the Kuomintang party machine.

The wiry, florid-faced little general astonished China at the outset of his campaign by declaring he stood for reforms—not paper reforms but real ones.

Gen. Li also made it evident he was willing to trade punches with the ruling cliques of the Kuomintang, which have run China for 20 years.

China's millions, who rarely hear such talk, stopped to listen and to wait for the slaughter of the upstart. Then came the national assembly. It selected Chiang as China's first constitutional president. That was expected.

Then it rejected Sun Fo, Kuomintang regular, and elected General Li to the vice presidency. That was unexpected.

Ordinarily, the election of a vice president wouldn't cause a ripple in China. Now it was different. For one thing, there was Li's upset victory. For another, there was the possibility that the vice president might become the head of the nation which Chiang long has ruled.

The vice president is little more than a figurehead in China. Chances are, however, that Li will do all the law allows—and then some. His background as a military man and a politician bears this out.

The 58-year-old vice president comes from the peasantry of South China-Kwangsi province. As a boy he worked on a farm, managed to educate himself, became a teacher and finally joined the army.

In the army Li made important friendships, notably with Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi, now China's defense minister. Eventually Li became military overlord of Kwangsi province.

Li and Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi marched their troops back to South China and Kwangsi. From 1930 to 1938 Li was busy running Kwangsi. He introduced education and economic reforms and strove to make the province self sufficient.

His closest friends say Li long has been impatient with the present government. He has been heard to express anger at government corruption and do-nothingness. He asserts it plays into communist hands.

This is no time for us to conceal our disease and avoid the doctor," he said recently. "We must attack the disease whenever and wherever it is found with the strongest dose of medicine."

The disease in and out of government is corruption and bureaucracy and what we need as medicine is thoroughgoing reform."

Li proposes that the government fight communist fire with fire by putting into practice a land redistribution program, which now is the main communist weapon in winning over the peasantry.

This is supposed to be one reason why Chiang objects to Li. The president doesn't think the time is ripe for land redistribution. Li also insists the Kuomintang has elements of feudalism in it. He wants a house cleaning in the party from top to bottom.

The charges that he has communist support were made in the heat of the bitter electioneering for the vice presidency. In the general opinion here, the charge is wide of the mark.

Weddings, Engagements Take Spotlight

THERE'S something about a bride . . . whether she wears blue or white, diamonds or pearls. This time of year brings to the society desk reams of copy on engagement announcements and coming spring and summer weddings. The schedule of coming events predicts many elaborate society weddings and also a large number of small closed ceremonies. . . .

Gray-McFarland

Yesterday afternoon a popular young miss, Charlotte Gray, announced to her friends her coming marriage to Richard W. McFarland. The nuptial date, Aug. 1, was made known Saturday at a tea from 3 to 5 p. m. given by Mrs. Tom Ford and Mrs. C. D. Bancroft, cousins of the bride-to-be at the Ford residence, Alta west road.

Miss Gray, daughter of Mrs. J. Wilbur Gray, 65 West Park boulevard, and Mr. McFarland, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. McFarland, Route 1, Lucas, will be wed at 2:30 o'clock at the First Methodist church. The bride-elect is a clerk in the county auditor's office and a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school. Mr. McFarland was graduated from Lucas high school and is engaged in farming.

Miss Gray has chosen Mrs. Howard W. Perathner (the former Margaret Harold) and Mrs. Edward Wysocki (the former Eleanor Fraser) of Tipp City, O., as her attendants. Serving Mr. McFarland will be Paul Eckert of Lexington, Dean Swigart of Columbus, Duane Berry of Lucas and Charles Kayler of Mansfield as ushers. Best man will be Richard Arehart of Lucas.

Appointments for the lovely tea, which was attended by 60 guests, were in yellow and white. Announcement was found on individual cakes, each iced with the date "Aug. 1."

Thompson-Parker

and Mrs. Estes Carter Thompson, now residing in Dallas, but who had lived for many years at 1034 Woodland road, Mansfield, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ann Carol, to John Albert Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Parker, 511 Edgewood road.

The vows will be exchanged June 14 at the Thompson home in Dallas. Attending Miss Thompson as maid of honor will be Miss Joan Bell of Ambler, Pa. John Fogarty of St. Paul, Minn., will serve as Mr. Parker's best man.

Miss Thompson attended Chatham Hall, Chatham, Va., and was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school. She was a student at Hollins college, Virginia, last year and now attends Southern Methodist university, Dallas. Mr. Parker was graduated from Culver Military academy and will be graduated from the University of Notre Dame on June 7. He also spent two years as a lieutenant in the armored tank division, U. S. Army. . . .

Shaffstall-Caskey

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Shaffstall, 87 Lind avenue, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ann Louise, to Roger Clayton Caskey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Caskey, 730 North Sixteenth street, Cambridge, O. The open church ceremony will be performed on Sunday afternoon, June 20, at 2:30 p. m. in the First United Presbyterian church with Rev. Charles L. Shook officiating.

Miss Shaffstall has chosen as her attendants, Miss Joan Senert, maid of honor, Miss Helen Marie McClure, bridesmaid, and Eleanor Shook, flower girl. Charles Caskey will attend his brother as best man.

Miss Shaffstall is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, and Mansfield Business college and attended Muskingum college. She is now employed by the Mansfield health department.

Mr. Caskey, a veteran of two years army service, is a graduate of Cambridge high school, and is now employed by the Charles Ritter company.

Haupt-Duncan

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Haupt, 483 Parkview street, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Jane, to Eugene Duncan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Duncan, 401 South Diamond street.

June 20 has been chosen for the date of the wedding in St. Luke's Lutheran church with the Rev. H. S. Gurnes officiating for the formal open ceremony at 2:30 p. m.

Miss Haupt has chosen Miss Susan Haupt, her cousin, from Renovo, Pa., to be her maid of honor. Miss Betsy Weller and Miss Mary Weller will be her bridesmaids. Miss Barbara and Miss Carole Haupt, cousins of the bride, of Detroit, will be the flower girls.

Albert Duncan, brother of the groom, will act as best man for the ceremony.

Mr. Duncan spent 3½ years in the U. S. Navy and then returned to graduate from Mansfield Senior high school. He is employed now at the Ohio Brass. Miss Haupt will graduate from Mansfield Senior high school June 2. . . .

Hamilton-Raitch

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd J. Hamilton sr., 125 Washington avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Alice, to Benjamin L. Raitch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Raitch, Lexington road. (Continued on Page 20)

MRS. ALAN TAPPAN PLANS UNUSUAL GARDEN SITE

Mansfield Garden Club History and Activities Given By News-Journal Society Reporter.

By DOROTHY MONROE
ANY WINDOW you choose in the Alan Tappan home in Woodland frames a lovely garden picture.
This plan was worked out and realized by Mrs. Tappan, who is a charter member of the Mansfield Garden club. And whether you are viewing the grounds from the interior of the home or strolling through the garden itself—any way you look at it—the arrangement is one of the most attractive in the city.

Despite the proportions of the landscaping Mrs. Tappan does all of her gardening herself.
"I love to work with the plants and to plan the arrangements," she explained, "and I'd much rather do it myself than to try to describe the effect I want to someone else."

"I set out all of my tuberous begonias and many of my other annuals just last week," she added.

As you approach the Tappan home at 374 Woodland road you find at your left what Mrs. Tappan has named "The Grove." The flowers there begin to bloom early in April and continue until late in May. Then it is all green with ferns and foliage during the summer.

The Grove is well shaded to encourage the good health of the flowers planted there. The first to bloom are narcissi, blue mertenia (Virginia Blue Bell) and many varieties of Ohio's native wild flowers. The general effect from the living room windows of the home is of a blue, yellow and white floral picture.

Later the color scheme in the Grove makes a transition to blue, pink and white as the tulips, bleeding hearts, trillium and scillas begin to bloom.

"The Grove is always a restful place because it is so cool looking," Mrs. Tappan said.

Next to the grove is the azalea garden. The library windows form the frame for this picture. As soon as the azaleas have done their season's blooming the rhododendrons blossoms make their appearance. These are followed by the peonies and iris. After mid-June this garden is entirely green.

At the north side of the house is the tuberous begonia plot. These annuals are arranged along the edge of a stone walk and the beauty of the area is enhanced by the pretty wall fountain which spouts a dainty stream of water into a tiny pool. Mrs. Tappan keeps a floating arrangement of fresh flowers in the pool.

Tulips bloom in this garden before the begonias are set out and they are interspersed with double ruffle petunias. White lilac bushes and pink dogwood trees provide additional color to the setting. To the side of this garden is another all in white in which grow rhododendrons and tulips.

A square garden outside the dining room windows is completely bordered with pansies. Later in the season they will be replaced by white petunias. Other flowers arranged in the section include white floss, astilbe, single and Chinese peonies, heperis, platycodon, shasta daisies, regal lilies, veronica, coral bells, bleeding hearts, perennial cornflowers and many others.

"Something always is blooming in this garden," Mrs. Tappan told us.

This garden is set apart on two sides by a snowy white picket fence and at the north side of it is a stone bench which adds the final touch to the restful atmosphere.

Aside from her obvious success as a landscape gardener Mrs. Tappan also is adept at indoor flower arrangements. Vases and bowls of flowers from her garden are placed in many appropriate places around her home.

MANSFIELD GARDEN CLUB
Mrs. Tappan's garden club is observing its 20th anniversary this year. It was organized in April, 1928, and Mrs. Fred Wolfe, now of Sandusky, was instrumental in the initial plans. Mrs. C. S. Williams, the honorary president, was the Mansfield Garden club's first president.

The organization meeting was held in the home of Mrs. George Draffan and 15 of the women who met that day still are active in the club. They are Mrs. E. H. Brown, Mrs. A. M. Colby, Miss Lily Dickson, Mrs. M. O. Doolittle, Mrs. Draffan, Mrs. R. S. Gibson, Mrs. J. C. Gorman, Mrs. Fred Herring, Mrs. C. M. Jelliff, Mrs. J. S. Lare, Mrs. L. C. Perl, Mrs. J. A. Rigby, Mrs. Charles Schroer, Mrs. P. E. Sturges and Mrs. Tappan.

CLUB OFFICERS
The officers who are serving the club this year are Mrs. Colby, president; Mrs. S. F. Coffin, vice president; Mrs. Lois Anson, secretary, and Mrs. W. A. Bowers jr., treasurer.

Appropriate enough for the club's purpose is the quotation from Whittier in the year book, "Beauty seen is never lost."

Mrs. G. W. Stephens, Mrs. M. O. Doolittle and Mrs. G. V. Smith are serving on the organization's executive committee. Honorary members besides Mrs. Williams are Mrs. T. R. Barnes, Mrs. H. S. Black and Mrs. Leo Stuhldreher.

The Mansfield Garden club was instrumental in organizing several of the city's younger clubs including the Johnny Appleseed club, the Astowela club, the Town and

MRS. ALAN TAPPAN

Country club and the Buckeye club.

For several years the members served as chief organizers for flower shows given locally for the public. Two were given at Raelmerton Farm in conjunction with the horse shows there and two were presented at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

A traditional project of the club is to provide flowers and tray decorations for the hospital during the Easter and Christmas seasons. This year the group is working with the Town and Country club to provide unusual native Ohio trees and flowers which do not already grow at the Girl Scout Camp. By adding these various plants the women will complete the picture for study by the Scouts.

SCHOOL GARDENS
The school garden work was directed by the Mansfield club for several years before the later clubs were formed. Now all the organizations which are affiliated with the local Garden Center participate in the work by helping with planning and judging.

MRS. ALAN TAPPAN, 374 Woodland road, is shown left in her lovely garden which she plans and plants herself. The garden, during the past several weeks, has been at its best for the early spring season.

Mansfield Takes Bride From Norway

Miss Harde Oddrun Alm, who with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Alm, came to the United States from Oslo, Norway, 18 months ago, was married Saturday evening to Robert Dale Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart P. Patterson, R. D. 2. The Alms are now residing in Orlando, Fla.

The service was conducted at 7:30 o'clock in the parsonage of the First Christian church with the Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, pastor of the church, officiating.

The bride wore a pink suit and all white accessories. A shoulder corsage completed her costume.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Patterson. Mr. Patterson is a brother of the bridegroom.

Attendants Chosen By Miss McDowell

Miss Barbara McDowell, bride-elect of Thomas P. Wilhelm, Cuyahoga Falls, today named the attendants for the wedding which will be an event of June 12.

Mrs. W. N. Lyon Jr., Chicago, will be Miss McDowell's matron of honor and bridesmaids will be Miss Dorothy Hainer and Miss Eleanor Fob.

John F. Wilhelm, Cuyahoga Falls, will serve his brother as best man. The four ushers will be John Morris, Lakewood; Frank Cline, Hudson, and William Berger and Duane Weitzel, both of Cuyahoga Falls.

Miss McDowell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. McDowell, Bartley avenue, and Mr. Wilhelm's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ray M. Wilhelm, Cuyahoga Falls.

The marriage will be solemnized at 4:30 p. m. in St. Luke's Lutheran church, Dr. H. S. Barnes will officiate for the double ring rite.

Miss McDowell was graduated from Kent State university in 1947. She is affiliated with Delta Gamma social sorority. At present she is employed by the Lamb Electric company at Kent.

Mr. Wilhelm is a junior student of marketing at Kent State and is vice president of his fraternity, Phi Kappa Theta. He is a member of the Varsity K club, having played on the 1946-47 football team. He served three years with the navy.

MISS BARBARA M'DOWELL

Norma Barton Is Bride of Robert Konves

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Konves have been honeymooning in Chicago since their marriage Saturday, May 15, at 4:30 p. m. in St. Paul's Lutheran church. The couple will reside at 223 1/2 Hedges street.

The Rev. John Gensel officiated for the quiet, close ceremony. The altar was decorated with palms and lighted by tall tapers.

The bride was Norma Barton and her parents are C. H. Bosler, 223 Hedges street, and Mrs. Stout, McCallister field, Calif. Mr. Konves is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Konves, 202 North Mulberry street.

A light blue suit and pink and navy accessories composed the bride's ensemble. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds and shattered carnations.

Mrs. Charles Grant attended the bride in a pink and navy costume. Her corsage was of gardenias. William R. Konves served as best man for his brother.

After the ceremony a dinner was served at the Richland Recreation Center for the immediate families. The reception was given at 8:30 p. m. in the home of the bridegroom's parents. Friends and relatives were served from a table attractively appointed with lighted candles and arrangements of sweetpeas.

For traveling Mrs. Konves chose a blue suit with a navy top and matching accessories.

The bridegroom is employed by the Dominion Electric corporation. Out-of-town guests at the wedding were present from Newark, Galion, Pittsburgh, Pa., McCallister field and Willow Run, Mich.

Needlecraft Guild Entertained

The Needlecraft Guild of the Colony Club met recently at the home of Mrs. E. J. Osborne, 421 Parkview street. Mrs. Harold Robson was the associate hostess. Twenty-three members and two guests were in attendance.

Mrs. Henry Paulson gave an interesting talk and demonstration on "Ceramics". The next meeting will be June 16 at the home of Mrs. James Steele, 556 Summit.

Mrs. Richard Felts will be the associate hostess.

Park Association Has Card Party

The Prospect Park association and auxiliary held their final joint meeting of the season during the past week. A covered-dish dinner was served in the pavilion and the evening was spent playing cards.

High scores for bridge were won by Mrs. Sam Hollingsworth and L. L. Stickler. Pinochle prizes went to Mr. and Mrs. Claude Zediker. The committee for the evening included Mr. and Mrs. George Hoffman and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fritchen.

The first fall meeting will be Sept. 15 in the park pavilion.

Wedding Date Revealed for Miss Elfriede Jundt, Don Moreland

JULY 9 is the date chosen by Miss Elfriede Jundt for her marriage to Donald Moreland of Bloomfield, N. J. Twenty friends of the bride-elect learned of the coming nuptials at a party given Friday evening at the home of Miss Eleanor Walters, 220 Lind avenue.

Miss Jundt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jundt, 223 West Third street, and Mr. Moreland is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Moreland sr., Bloomfield, N. J.

Announcement was made by the playing of a record which told of the date, time, place and attendants. Miss Ruth Snyder, close friend of the bride-to-be, was the narrator, and during this time, also on the recording, Miss Jundt sang "I Love You Truly."

Contests were the diversion of the evening, using the wedding theme. Prizes were presented to Miss Florence Smith, Miss Mildred McFarland and Miss Margery Smotherman.

At a late hour refreshments were served from a table attractive with pink and white appointments. The centerpiece consisted of a boat, named the "U. S. Moreland." Attached to ribbons and concealed in the boat were miniature logs which also gave the wedding details. Presiding at the serving table were Miss Martha Pernan and Miss Snyder.

When the open church formal ceremony is solemnized at 7:30 p. m. July 9, the scene will be the Grace Gospel church.

Miss Jundt has chosen for her attendants, Miss Martha Pernan of Wooster, college roommate of the bride, as maid of honor, Miss Eleanor Walters and Miss Snyder and Miss Marie Tomey, also a college friend, of Greensburg, Pa., as bridesmaids. Miss Nancy Moreland of Livingston, N. J., niece of the bridegroom as junior bridesmaid, Miss Martha Jean Moreland of Greenville, Ohio, niece of the bridegroom, flower girl; and David Moreland of Livingston, N. J., nephew of the bridegroom, as ring bearer.

Out-of-town guests in attendance for the party were Miss Carolyn Vogler of Vermillion and the Misses Martha and Carolyn Pernan of Wooster.

ning included Mr. and Mrs. George Hoffman and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fritchen.

Family Night Dinner Given

Family night was observed Wednesday when the John Todd Park auxiliary entertained in the pavilion with a covered-dish dinner. Members whose birthdays are in May received a decorated birthday cake baked by Mrs. Vera Baker.

Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Jay Shadel, Mr. and Mrs. John R. McDonald and Mrs. Baker. Mr. and Mrs. George Dillon and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Hollinger were guests. Sixty-five persons were present.

After dinner Mrs. Jennings Heiser, president conducted the business session. Another family night was scheduled for June 16, at which time a written ballot will be taken to elect new officers.

Hosts for the meeting will be Mr. and Mrs. Burton French, Mrs. Grace Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hoffman.

Jay Shadel, president of the park association, announced that the organization would sponsor a lawn-fete Friday evening, June 25 on the park grounds. The committee in charge of arrangements includes Mrs. Burton French, Mrs. George Traxler, Mrs. Jay Shadel and Mrs. Glenn Pore.

Teen Talk— Gossip From M. H. S.

By ANN SCHOENMAN

Thursday was quite the day for seniors at M. H. S. They let loose and really dressed for Kid's Day. Cameras snapped all around.

Six foot two inches Fred Miller looked "stunning" in the short trousers and little Lord Fauntleroy bow. . . . Dorothy Zivkoff takes the cake for her outfit. She really went back to childhood days with her lacy pantaloons showing. . . . Jake Elmas was quite attractive in her long blue stockings and Shirley Temple curls. . . .

Thursday was the first time any of the students of M. H. S. had seen the Nether twins dressed alike. Kathleen and Katherine both turned back the pages to grade school days and wore identical outfits. . . . Peggy Cole had a big job carrying that large bear all around. It was almost as big as she is. . . . Some of the stores in town certainly had a run on large suckers. It seems that every where you'd look you would see an over grown lollipop. . . . Beverly Shipley even made it look like she had lost her front tooth for the day. . . .

George Sherman almost lost ten years of his life when Shirley Brigham, Carolyn Poorman, Beverly Shipley, and Maureen Moore decided to leave him something to remember his third period office practice class by. . . . The teachers were wondering if chicken-pox was going around from all of the newly acquired spots on the seniors faces. The students finally convinced them that it was just eyebrow pencil used for freckles. . . .

If you want to get home early don't let Bernard Weaver talk you into having him drive you right home. A few days ago he took or at least started to take some girls straight home and they arrived at about 2 a. m. . . . I hope Patsy Wilburn is feeling better by the time she reads this. She is in the hospital for an operation. . . . If you are wondering where Millie Schmitzer got her black eye, she and Shirley Brigham bumped heads the other day. Hope it's in better condition by the night of the prom, Millie. . . . Congratulations to Marilyn Brandt and Dick Rohleder for your newly acquired titles of editor and co-editor of the Manhagan. . . .

Congratulations to every student who received some kind of an award on Class Day. Congratulations to every graduating senior also and good luck to the kids that will take our places in the halls of MHS. . . . Here's hoping you will have as much fun as we have had during our twelve years in school.

Society Lists New Officers

A covered-dish dinner was served in the basement of St. Matthew's Lutheran church for 45 members of the Anna S. Kugler Missionary society, recently.

Mrs. Charles Sheriff reviewed Cid Ricketts Sumner's novel, "Quality," based on the race question. A vocal duet, "Whispering Hope" was given by Mrs. Raymond Beal and Miss Doris Bush. Mrs. Robert R. Myers accompanied them at the piano.

The committee for the meeting included Mrs. G. L. Moore, Mrs. H. F. Emerson, Mrs. L. J. Meeker and Mrs. C. N. Overmyer.

Before dinner a business session was conducted with the following officers elected to serve during the coming year: Mrs. J. H. Mollen-kop, president; Mrs. J. H. Balhiet, vice-president; Mrs. H. F. Emerson, secretary, and Mrs. L. J. Meeker, treasurer.

The next meeting will be June 17 at the parish house.

Astowela Garden Club Given Varied Program At Meeting

MRS. W. W. TAWSE, Edgewood road, entertained members of the Astowela Garden club Friday afternoon at her home, assisted by Mrs. M. E. Geipel. A buffet luncheon was served at noon from an attractively decorated table centered with red carnations and daisies. Mrs. W. J. Spreng and Mrs. C. L. Willsey presided at the serving table.

Mrs. E. S. Weller presented the flower arrangement for the day. The business session was conducted by Mrs. Willsey, in the absence of the president, Miss Grace Wolcott. Twenty-four were in attendance.

Mrs. Charles Fox opened the meeting with a prize-winning poem, "Nature's Creed", written by Edna Hughes McMurtry. Mrs. Weller, conservation chairman spoke on the terrace farming in the middle west.

Mrs. C. V. McConnell, horticulture chairman, told of the Nankeen, Estate, Formosa and Gold Band lilies which can still be planted this season. She also spoke on the Platycodon.

Mrs. W. T. Marquis gave an interesting talk on "The Art of Flower Arrangement". She said that the most clever arrangements are often made from the most ordinary flowers.

"The container must not detract from the flowers", said Mrs. Marquis, "and for distinction one should use their own natural ability".

Mrs. Spreng was honored by the group when they sang "Happy Birthday". On June 4 the club will meet at the home of Mrs. E. S. Weller, Overlook road, with Mrs. H. H. Shaw assisting.

The first Diesel-powered streamline train was placed in service in 1934.

Miss Eleanor Wentz Wed In Church Rite to Richard Sheehe

THE First Lutheran Church in Shelby was the scene of the pretty formal wedding solemnized Saturday evening at 7:30, uniting in marriage Miss Eleanor Jean Wentz of Shelby and Richard Leo Sheehe, son of Mrs. Marguerite Bowie, 147½ Rowland avenue.

Four seven branch candelabra and two large beauty baskets of white and pink carnations formed a dainty background for the ceremony. Mock orange blossoms decorated the choir loft and at each pew were white ribbon bows.

Rev. D. Bruce Young officiated for the service which was attended by many Mansfielders and Shelbyites. Miss Esther Barnett of Lucas was the organist for the program of nuptial music and Arthur Boyce of Shelby was vocalist.

Given in marriage by her brother, Donald L. Wentz of Shelby, the bride was lovely in a formal gown of heavy blush satin, made with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves which came to a point over the hands. The bodice was fitted down to the hip line and the long full train was separated from the bodice with scalloped cording. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Her blush fingertip length veil was fastened to a rosepoint lace tiara with orange blossoms on either side. She wore a traditional wedding blue garter, belonging to the Shelby chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, and carried a white Bible, a gift from her college roommate, Mrs. W. C. Knoblauch III, of Tiffin.

On the Bible were three large gardenias with spray ribbons and ivy cascading over the sides.

Mrs. Sheehe is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Wentz, 96 North Broadway, Shelby. Mr. Sheehe has been residing at 81 East Main street, Shelby.

Mrs. Arthur Bowser, Tecumseh, Mich., sister of the bride, served

Women of Possum Run Golf Association will convene Wednesday at 10 a. m. for the annual business session and election of officers. The group will meet at the club house. Play will follow with pairings made up during the morning meeting.

Lena Hummel Changes Name To Helbig

Miss Lena Mae Hummel, daughter of Martin B. Hummel and the late Elizabeth M. Hummel, 502 Ashland road, and Glenn Helbig, 97 Reba avenue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Helbig, 87½ West Fifth street, exchanged nuptial vows Friday at 4:30 o'clock at the First Lutheran Church.

Rev. Carveth P. Mitchell read the service in the presence of the immediate families.

For her wedding the bride chose a white street length gaberdine suit with Balenciaga accessories. Her headband was of Souvenir roses and her only jewelry was a strand of pearls.

She carried a Colonial bouquet of Souvenir roses and yellow daisies.

Mrs. Eileen Hamilton, close friend of the bride, was her matron of honor. She wore a teal blue suit with white blouse, and lizard accessories. Her head band was of Talisman roses and she carried a Colonial bouquet of Talisman roses and yellow daisies.

Mrs. Helbig was attired in a navy blue crepe print, navy blue accessories and wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

Serving as best man was Ralph Helbig, brother of the bridegroom.

At the close of the service a reception for 75 guests was held at the home of the bride's father. A four tiered wedding cake and three branch candelabra centered the attractively decorated serving table. The cake was encircled with white sweetpeas and yellow daisies and greenery. The same arrangement was used around the candelabra. White souvenir books of matches with "Lena Mae and Glenn" on them in gold, were given to each guest. Mrs. James Hunter presided for the reception. The home was lovely with many floral arrangements.

Upon their return they will reside at 502 Ashland road.

Mrs. Helbig was graduated from Madison high school and is employed as manager of the Crippins Variety Store in Plymouth. Mr. Helbig, a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, is employed at the Westinghouse Electric Company.

as matron of honor. She was attired in a pale pink satin taffeta gown, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and fitted through the bodice. The peplum, seamed to the extension of the skirt front, was gathered and caught at the waistline seam to form a swallowtail effect. The skirt joined the bodice front in a point below the natural waistline. Miniature bouquets of white carnations were attached to each side of the peplum.

The bridesmaids were Miss Virginia Bowie of Mansfield, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. James Huss of Shelby and Miss Janet Kelly of Mansfield, close friends of the bride. Their dresses were identical to the matron of honor's, except the color was a darker shade of rose, carrying out the various shades of pink from the blush to the darker rose of the bridesmaids.

All the attendants wore elbow length mitts and tiaras, styled like the bride's, made from the same material as their dresses. Their jewelry was rhinestone necklaces, gifts from the bride. The dresses were designed and made by a sorority sister of the bride, Mrs. Lottie Lantz of Mansfield. All of the young women carried shower bouquets of white carnations, tied with white satin ribbons.

Mrs. Bowie, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a black dress and hat with charreuse accessories and wore a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Wentz wore a navy silk dress, navy hat with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Ushering the guests to their pews were August Morningstar of Mansfield, Gordon Inhoff of Shelby and James Sheeds of Mansfield, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Serving as best man was Fred Tharp of Mansfield, close friend of the bridegroom.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Skiles, 38 Glenwood Drive, Shelby, for 140 guests. The home was decorated with spring flowers and lighted tapers. A four tiered wedding cake and other dainty appointments in pink and white centered the serving table. Mrs. W. C. Knoblauch of Tiffin, Miss Ruth Judy of Cleveland and Mrs. O. J. Rotterer Jr., Bowling Green, close friends of the bride, presided at the reception. They were assisted by Mrs. Donald Wentz, Misses Ila Mae Foltz and Marilyn Boutwell of Shelby. Mrs. John Rudd was in charge of the bride's book.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Cleveland, the bride attired in a blue suit, made with a peplum in back and a full skirt. Her accessories were in navy and she wore a gardenia corsage. After May 30 they will reside at 81 East Main street, Shelby.

The bride was graduated from Shelby high school and Tiffin University where she was a member of Kappa Delta Phi sorority and Delta Sigma Kappa, honorary fraternity.

She is now a member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority in Shelby. She has been employed as a case worker and secretary of the Richland County chapter, American Red Cross.

Mr. Sheehe was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and spent over five years in the Army, serving in the Pacific theater. He is manager of the radio department at Sears, Roebuck and Company.

Out-of-town guests were in attendance from Detroit, Tecumseh, Mansfield, Cleveland, Bowling Green, Columbus, Tiffin, Lucas, Marion, Galion, Akron and Barberton.

ADELE ASTAIRE DOUGLAS

Adele Astaire Picks Richland County As Scene of New Home

By OLIVE GRESMER

PETITE Adele Astaire Douglas, noted actress, enthusiastically chose a scenic spot, which she christened "Buttercup Hill," for her future home in Richland county.

In spite of the beauties of the rolling countryside at Malabar, the county home of the Louis Bromfelds, Mrs. Douglas chose a far cry from her 16,000 acre estate in County Waterford, Ireland.

This tiny, vivacious woman, who was known for years as Lady Cavendish in England and Ireland, is better known as the actress and dancing sister of the famous star, Fred Astaire.

Friends for more than 20 years, this is still the first time Mrs. Douglas has had an opportunity to visit Malabar, and to renew acquaintances with the Bromfield family. She and her husband, of a year, Kirkman Douglas of New York, arrived at the Malabar Farm Monday and left Friday.

The Bromfields and Lord and Lady Cavendish had visited many times when the Bromfields maintained residence in Paris. The former Adele Astaire became the bride of Lord Charles, Duke of Devonshire, in 1932, after a courtship which spanned the ocean. She had first met him in England while playing in a stage play abroad. She retired from the stage at the time of her marriage. Lord Charles died in Ireland in 1944 after an illness of several years.

During the war years she worked with the American Red Cross in London and Ireland and endured the horrors of bombings and thrills of suspense, doing service for her country. At that time she thought nothing of daily plane trips from London to Dublin, and back, but now shies away from air travel.

Born in Omaha, Neb., to "stage-struck" parents, Adele and her brother, Fred, were trained and encouraged from childhood to love the theater. At the ages of 9 and 10, the two children started their careers which brought them into world-wide fame as dancers. Their first experiences were in vaudeville with one-night stands in cities throughout the United States and Canada.

Adele then appeared in 1918 in the stage shows, "Over the Top" and "The Passing Show."

Her love of comedy overshadowed the straight part played by her brother, but when they teamed as a dancing act, Fred quickly won recognition for his dancing.

Among her other stage hits were "Apple Blossoms," "Love Letter," "For Goodness Sake" and "The Bunch and Judy." Her first London appearance was in 1923 in "Stop Flirting."

When asked if she ever intended to return to the theater she immediately answered, "Good heavens No! I'd be frightened to death. I wouldn't go near an opening night performance for it makes me so nervous for the actors."

"The horrors, in the front row (meaning the audience) would scare me speechless," she said. However, still very much the actress, this charming lady, bubbles over with sparkling conversation and poise which belies her statements concerning the theater.

"I really loved the stage and 'Band Wagon,' my final show was certainly my favorite," said Miss Astaire.

She and her husband, a dignified fellow, were thrilled with Richland County, and expressed the desire to get away from city life and settle in a small community. He rather favors Virginia, because of it being his boyhood home, but Miss Astaire is still holding out for country life on the Bromfield scale in this part of Ohio.

They will leave in a few weeks to visit her home at Lismore Castle, Ireland, where they will spend the summer months, entertaining friends from all over the world. This huge estate which she called "home" for many years is large enough to accommodate a small army.

What a contrast to a tiny farm in the Lucas community!

If Richland countians are fortunate enough to call the Douglases their neighbors they'll find two of the most charming people, adding their talents and friendliness to the community.

Thirty-four per cent of the population of the Hawaiian islands in 1941 was of Japanese ancestry

MRS. NATALIE BACALL

Natalie Bacall Pinch Hits As Secretary for Mr. Bromfield

By DOROTHY MONROE

SHE MAY be acting as a pinch-hitter but in Louis Bromfield's league Mrs. Natalie Bacall is batting 1,000.

The mother of the famous screen star, Lauren Bacall Bogart, is acting as personal secretary to the Richland county author-farmer since the recent death of George Hawkins. She arrived at Malabar two weeks ago and will remain there for another week before returning to her home in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Bacall recently returned from Europe where she has been doing similar work for another author.

"I love to come to Malabar," Mrs. Bacall said this week in an interview. "It is so restful and so wonderful. But there never is a dull moment here. There are always lots of interesting people and a visitor is well entertained."

She has visited the Bromfields at their Richland county home several times since the marriage of her daughter and Mr. Bogart which was solemnized three years ago last Friday.

When asked how she felt about her daughter's screen career Mrs. Bacall said, "I have always encouraged her along dramatic lines. She is one of those persons who was born to be an actress and even as a child she was interested in drama."

She recalled a dinner party she and her daughter attended when Miss Bacall was 12 years old. After dinner Lauren asked each of the guests to autograph the menu. With apparent disavowant sight the mother wrote

Victor Reis To Give Talk Here Thursday

Victor Reis of Columbus, who is associated with the Ohio State University extension course, will be presented here on Thursday under the sponsorship of the Mansfield Garden Center.

Members of Mansfield Garden clubs are invited with their guests to attend the salad luncheon at the Grace Episcopal Church at 1 p. m. in the undercroft. This will be followed by the lecture by Mr. Reis, which is open to the public at 2 p. m.

He will give a slide talk on "Interesting Plants and Places". Another feature of the event will be the flower displays to be shown by the various local garden groups.

Mrs. R. J. Welsh is general chairman and is being assisted by Mrs. George Holland.

Reservations for the luncheon will be made through the respective garden clubs.

Plans Made For Activities

Mrs. R. E. Harter conducted a business session for Charles Dick auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, this week in Memorial hall. The group made final plans for Memorial Day.

Members of the camp and auxiliary will meet at Memorial hall at 10 a. m. May 30. The group will attend Memorial day services at St. Paul's Lutheran church.

The patriotic instructor, Mrs. Hattie Seymour, read a portion of the rules and regulations and Mrs. Edith Massa, historian, gave a report on "The Origin of Memorial Hall".

Dinner was served at 6 p. m. by the Marquis Sewing Circle with Mrs. Fred Marquis and Mrs. E. C. Summerville acting as hostesses.

The next auxiliary meeting will be June 1 and the Marquis Circle will meet for quilting May 27. Both sessions will be in Memorial hall.

on the menu, "To Hollywood's future star."

Later, Mrs. Bacall said, her daughter attended the American Academy of Dramatic Art and Hollywood "discovered" her after she had modeled for a picture featured in Harper's Bazaar.

Returning to the subject of the peacefulness of Malabar Farm Mrs. Bacall concluded the interview with, "As young as she is, Lauren loves farms and there is nothing she likes better than to visit the Bromfields at their home."

According to Mrs. Bacall the Bogarts are planning a return visit to the scene of their wedding sometime during the Fall.

Gaylee Dick to Be Wed Today to Stephen Korbas

Double Ring Ceremony Set For 10 A. M. In Most Pure Heart of Mary Catholic Church.

SHELBY—Miss Gaylee Beverly Dick, daughter of Ivan Dick, Route 3, Shelby, and Stephen John Korbas, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Korbas, 7 Summit street, were to be wed today at 10 a. m.

The double ring ceremony was to be performed by Rev. McFadden in the Most Pure Heart of Mary Catholic church.

The bride, to be given in marriage by her father, planned to wear a gown of white nylon marquisette over white satin. The shoulder and long sleeves are sheer and gathers of satin edged in lace form the top of the bodice. The long train is edged in lace. The finger-tip veil is held in place by a bonnet. The bride planned to carry a white orchid surrounded by stephanotis.

Matron of honor was to be Mrs. George Perman jr., cousin of the bride. She chose an orchid gown made like the bride's. She was to carry a colonial bouquet of yellow daisies and orchid carnations.

Miss Mary Ann Korbas, sister of the bridegroom, was to be bridesmaid and Diana Jean Wentz, niece of the bride, was chosen to be flower girl.

Joseph Korbas was to be best man for his brother and Steve Bilka, cousin of the bridegroom, was groomsmen. Ushers were to be Rudy Korbas, brother of the bridegroom, and Joseph Bilka, cousin of the bridegroom. Jimmy Korbas, another brother of the bridegroom, was to be ring bearer.

A dinner for the bridal party and close relatives was to be held at the Shelby Inn following the ceremony. A reception will be held this afternoon at the home of the bride on the Shelby-Plymouth road. Mrs. Edwin Ervin, Mrs. Leroy Auck and Mrs. Jack Vail will preside at the table.

The newly-weds will take a trip through the eastern states. Mrs. Korbas will wear a navy suit with white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride attended Shelby high school and is employed at the Shelby Salesbook company. The bridegroom also went to Shelby high school, served two years in the U. S. Navy and is employed at the Shelby Cycle company.

Miss Moore Wed May 16

SHELBY—Mr. and Mrs. Ortiz C. Moore of Shenandoah are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mildred Moore, to Paul Eugene Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Brown of R. D. 2, Mansfield.

The wedding took place before the altar of the Ganges Evangelical and Reformed church May 16 at 8:30 a. m. Rev. Harlan J. Miller officiated for the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a light blue frosted organza ballerina length dress with a matching hat. She carried a front style bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

Following the ceremony, the couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and the New England states. For traveling, Mrs. Brown wore a pink bolero suit with white accessories and a pink rose corsage from the bridal bouquet.

The bride attended Union high school and was employed in the office of the Shelby Equity company.

The bridegroom also attended the Union high school and is employed at the Ohio Brass company in Mansfield.

He is attending Mansfield Business Training school also. He served in World War II in both the European and Pacific theaters.

Joseph Korbas was to be best man for his brother and Steve Bilka, cousin of the bridegroom, was groomsmen. Ushers were to be Rudy Korbas, brother of the bridegroom, and Joseph Bilka, cousin of the bridegroom. Jimmy Korbas, another brother of the bridegroom, was to be ring bearer.

A dinner for the bridal party and close relatives was to be held at the Shelby Inn following the ceremony. A reception will be held this afternoon at the home of the bride on the Shelby-Plymouth road. Mrs. Edwin Ervin, Mrs. Leroy Auck and Mrs. Jack Vail will preside at the table.

Myrtle Long Married to Raymond Mahl

WILLARD—Mr. and Mrs. John Long announce the marriage of their daughter, Myrtle, to Raymond Mahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mahl.

Rev. N. J. Traunero officiated at the double ring ceremony which was held May 10 in the St. Sebastian Church of Bismark. The children's choir of the church sang the nuptial mass, with Mrs. Herbert Eberly, aunt of the groom, at the organ.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of white slipper satin, off-the-shoulder style with lace yoke, long sleeves, fitted bodice with bustle effect skirt and long train. Her fingertip veil edged with French lace was held in place with a beaded crown. She carried white lilies with streamers and a silver rosary, gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Ruth Long, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a gown of violet taffeta. She carried yellow carnations. Miss Rita Bauman, cousin of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Mary Biller were bridesmaids.

The best men were Carl Mahl, brother of the bridegroom, and Raymond Long, brother of the bride. Ushers were Fred Long and Patrick Mahl.

The bride was graduated from the Willard high school in 1947.

"FLORAL FESTIVAL"

Rose Adelsberger, Student Assistant Instructress, at the Ethyl Batten Dance Academy is being featured in an advance-tap and a skating ballet in the production "Floral Festival" at Senior High School June 4 and 5.

SYNOPSIS

A long, long time ago in the far away Kingdom of "Bouquet Land", there was a tiny village called "Corsage", which nestled beside a deep forest at the edge of the kingdom. Here lived a happy gardener named "Monsieur Boutonniere", his wife "Madame Blossom" and the beautiful "Fleurette", whom they reared as their own child, having found her as a tiny tot abandoned in the nearby deep forest.

"Fleurette", the most beautiful maiden in the whole village, was gifted with the magical power to create luxuriant floral growth and splendor wherever her dainty feet trod over the barren earth. As a result, the countryside around "Corsage" was a garden of Paradise. But, the gain to "Corsage" was a loss to the rest of the Kingdom of "Bouquet Land", which became a barren waste.

No one, of course, knew that "Fleurette" was in reality a princess and the rightful heir to the Throne. They also did not know that "Fleurette" was spirited away from her palace home by "Aphid", the wicked Witch of Parasites, who was jealous of the magical powers of "Fleurette", and who abandoned her to die in the deep forest. After her disappearance, the whole kingdom went into mourning because the beautiful flowers for which "Bouquet Land" was famous ceased to bloom and a blight afflicted the kingdom.

And, so it was that the lovely Princess "Fleurette" grew to young womanhood utilizing her magical powers to give life, animation and radiance to all flowering vegetation about her. The good "Monsieur Boutonniere" and his wife prospered and the fame of "Corsage" spread throughout the neighboring land.

In time, the news of what occurred in "Corsage" reached the ears of "Sir Garland", the governing Lord of "Bouquet Land" who was sadly grieved at the condition existing in his domain since the princess disappeared. He sent his trusted envoy, to "Corsage", to request that "Fleurette" be presented to his court and to prevail upon her to use her magic charm to restore the barren kingdom to its former beauty. From the reports that flowed back to him, Sir Garland suspected that "Fleurette" might be the long lost Princess. She alone had the marvelous power over plant life. Sir Garland planned to restore "Fleurette" to her rightful place as future Queen of "Bouquet Land". This great honor thrilled the villagers of "Corsage" and in celebration, the delighted village maidens danced in joy.

"Fleurette" and her friends journeyed to the court of "Sir Garland" and as they passed through the barren countryside, the bare earth burst forth into riotous bloom and fragrance. Arriving at the palace, "Fleurette" was presented to the court and "Sir Garland" was now convinced that the long lost Princess was before him. He was so enchanted by the beauty and charm of "Fleurette" that he fell in love with her and asked her to be his Queen. "Fleurette" was overwhelmed by his amour and to the great joy of the whole court, she accepted him as her "Prince Consort."

With the kingdom of "Bouquet Land" now restored to a fertile and blooming paradise, the coming "Floral Festival" was the time chosen for the nuptial plans and great preparations were made for a doubly joyous occasion!

But Lo!! When the news of the joy and the wonderful transformation which occurred in "Bouquet Land" reached the ears of the wicked "Aphid", the witch of Parasites, she disguised herself as an old woman and journeyed to the court under the pretext of paying homage to the new Queen, "Fleurette". "Aphid" prepared to tribute a basket of beautiful flowers. But, concealed amongst the blooms, she placed a red rose with a thorny stem dipped in a deadly poison.

She found "Fleurette" alone in the Throne Room awaiting the arrival of her ladies in waiting. When "Fleurette" saw the old woman she became alarmed at first and had a premonition of disaster. But, her fears were dispelled by the ingratiating manner of the wicked "Aphid" and she was touched by the humble offering of the beautiful flowers. "Fleurette" hesitatingly accepted the rose and her finger touched a poisoned thorn lightly causing a very slight scratch. The potent poison made her swoon and fall to the floor.

The wicked Witch "Aphid" supposing "Fleurette" was dead, gloated over her success and danced in mad delight about the fallen princess. In her insane joy, "Aphid" leaps to "Fleurette" to snatch away the flowers which gave her apparent success and momentarily forgot about the poisoned rose among the blooms. As her greedy hands roughly grasped the flowers, the poisoned thorns sank deeply into her flesh. In horror, "Aphid" realized that she fell the victim of her own hatred and viciousness.

At the moment, "Sir Garland", who was seeking "Fleurette" entered the Throne Room and seeing "Fleurette" lying upon the floor, rushed over to her in alarm. As he reached her side she began to revive. The slight scratch on her hand did not receive sufficient poison to be fatal.

The dying Witch "Aphid" then realized that her wicked life was about over and in terror, she escaped the room, never to be heard of nor seen again in "Bouquet Land".

"Sir Garland" and "Fleurette" were reunited in a "pas de deux" and the ladies of the realm entered the Throne Room to witness the wedding Ballet, the climax of the "Floral Festival". "Fleurette" her Prince and entire Kingdom of Bouquet Land lived happily ever after.

The synopsis which you have just reviewed is a complete resume of the production "Floral Festival" which is being produced under the personal supervision of Ethyl Batten. Four performances will be given at the Senior High School Auditorium on June 4 and 5. There will be a matinee at 2 P.M. each day and the evening performance will be held at 8 P.M. both nights. Tickets are now on sale and reservations can be made for this delightful and beautiful production by calling 3192-9. —(Advertisement) white Bible. Her jewelry was a strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Janice King, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a formal gown of pink satin. The flower girl, Sharon Sue Martin of Crestline, was in white with pink ribbons.

Forrest Christian of Marion, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Frederick Barr, John Montrose, and Richard Durt-schi of Galion and Kenneth Scott of Mansfield, the latter two being cousins of the bridegroom.

Nearly 80 guests were present for the reception which was held at the home of the bride's parents. Those who assisted in serving were Janice King, Joyce Durt-schi, Betty Jane Durt-schi, all of Galion, Minerva Scott of Mansfield, Treva Parker of Iberia, and Marcia La Seuer of Crestline.

The bride wore a green and white striped two-piece dress with white accessories for her wedding trip.

The couple will make their home at 310 1/2 South Market street.

The bride was graduated from Iberia high school in 1945 and from the Marion Business college. She is employed as a secretary at the North Electric Manufacturing company here.

Mr. King was graduated from Jefferson high school in Lafayette, Ind., and attended Purdue university. He also served in the Navy for a year. He is employed in the office at Perfection Steel Body company here.

HOROSCOPE

For Monday, May 24

Monday's astrological forecast is for a definite and long-range conquest of a devastating, upsetting, complicating and well-nigh hopeless state of affairs, spelling loss, estrangements and abrupt smashing of all plans, hopes and wishes. By a common sense realization of such disintegrating factors, with a concentrated marshalling of all the forces, influences and resources available, there might be enduring security and recognition. Shun hasty decisions, nervous tension.

For the Birthday. Those whose birthday it is, are encouraged to study carefully in order to get a proper perspective and a sensible appraisal of a strange, complicated and menacing state of affairs, the culmination of which could mean a deep spading-up, separations or estrangements, poignant and revolutionary. Under surprise, nervous strain and excitement, serious mistakes could be made.

A child born on this day while having a restless mental attitude, with keen and uncertain emotional urges, is well endowed with stability of character, industry and far vision, to mend devastating and disintegrating forces and dramatic upsets in life.
